TRAGEDY COULD STRIKE

The PTA mothers setting up a meeting Thursday night concerning juvenile crime in their Daly City and Pacifica neighborhoods say this tunnel between Fairmont West Park and Fairmont School is only one site where small children are threatened and harassed by older children.

Children Menaced, Mothers Call Meeting

By JANET PARKER

Several Daly City and Pacifica mothers fear for the safety of their young children who they say are being harassed and molested in playgrounds and in parks in their middle-class suburban neighborhood.

Children as young as five years old, they say, are being threatened and intimidated by junior and senior high school students before and after school hours — sometimes less than a block away from their own homes.

Through the Franklin D. Roosevelt School Elementary PTA in Daly City, the women have scheduled a program Thursday night for parentsfrom both Pacifica and Daly City.

Expected to attend the 7:30 p.m. program are juvenile officers, recreation department officials and council members from both cities.

They are not, they stress, putting the blame for juvenile crime on anyone.

They are hoping that a joint effort between Daly City and Pacifica with parents and children cooperating — can control what they believe is a severe problem of juvenile delinquency.

The women asked that their names not be used because they fear that they and their children will be subject to reprisals.

The target areas that will be discussed Thursday night are the Fair West Park in Pacifica and the FDR School in Daly City — within blocks of each other.

One mother, Mrs. P. — whose 5-year-old was molested in August — says that the fear for her son and the continued verbal harassment upon herself by older children may force her and her husband to move from their Daly City home.

"These kids are bored," said Mrs. P. "That's what a lot of the problem is."

A Pacifica mother, Mrs. P., is tired of the continued harrassment of her 6-year-old daughter experiences at Fairmont West Park, only two blocks away.

Older children — who attend nearby junior and senior high schools are keeping the younger children off the play areas, they allege.

"It sounds like this is a high crime area but it's not," Mrs. P. said. "It's just that there are some incidents that scare parents."

Mrs. P.'s home overlooks the FCR campus where, she says, she sees teenagers congregate on weekends with their cars — insulting every adult and child who walks by.

Mrs. S. has a view of Fairmont West Park from her front Mrs. P.'s home overlooks the FDR campus where, she says, she sees teen-agers congregate on weekends with their cars — insulting every adult and child who walks by.

Mrs. S. has a view of her front yard and she says she's lucky because her 6-year-old daughter has only been verbally tormented by older children once.

The alternative to facing abuse, they say, is to keep their children in their own yards — trying to provide them with things to do. But the irony of the situation,

Crackdown on Shoplifting

Today, It's No Laughing Matter

By JANET PARKER

While the strains of "Jingle Bells" play in the background, a middle-age college professor stuffs a wristwatch in his pocket and scurries out the department store door.

In the parking lot, he's confronted by two security guards who quietly escort him to their office.

It's a scene that will be set frequently as the Christmas season approaches. The aftereffects surely will turn the holiday season sour for many who are caught doing their Christmas shoplifting early.

Most adults who shoplift don't have any idea that what they are doing is just as much a crime as any other act of theft, authorities agree.

That's why the state legislature, the courts and department stores are cracking down on shoplifters.

About 50 complaints a week are filed by North County police departments against alleged shoplifters, according to Assistant Dist. Atty. Cliff Cretan.

"We don't throw many cases out," Cretan said.

Department store security personnel, he said, usually turn over insufficient information to file charges.

The arrested shoplifters are a cross-section of society, he said. Many are middle and upper class individuals, and their excuses are as varied. Some claim the thefts are accidental. Others say they simply forgot to buy the items. Still others in shopping malls claim they had no idea they had left the store.

The value of the item makes no difference. Cretan said the North County Municipal Court recently won a conviction before a jury against a man accused of stealing a 47-cent item from a store.

If you think your high standing in the community or your previously flawless arrest record will get you off the shoplifting hook, think twice! North County Municipal Court Probation Director Jerry Marr says probation officers are explaining to shoplifters that their offense is nothing to laugh about.

"Judges here in the northern court, to my

Redevelopment Closer For 2 Business Areas

By FRANK LaPIERRE

A major step toward redevelopment of the Mission Street-Junipero Serra Boulevard business corridors was undertaken Monday at a joint meeting of the Daly City Redevelopment Agency and City Council.

As some 120 persons looked on, the council (in effect meeting with itself since the same people sit on the council and the community's Redevelopment Agency) acted on two important matters affecting revitalization of business in the two areas — adoption of a 100-page plus environmental impact report and introduction of a redevelopment plan.

As prescribed by law, the City Council must meet annually with the community redevelopment agency.

In Daly City, the council is the redevelopment agency.

Only three of the city's five councilmen/RA directors were present for the landmark meeting.

Councilman McRobert Stewart had been instructed by City Atty. Albert Polonsky not to attend because of a possible conflict of interest resulting from his employment at the White Lumber Co., located within the target area.

And Councilman Victor Kyriakis was absent because of illness, it was learned.

Stewart did attend a later study session of the council.

There was little opposition to either move by the Council/Agency from those attending the public hearings.

Most vociferous opposition came from Vance Creft, owner of Vance Creft Realty at 6147 Mission St.

Creft questioned the board on why the EIR was not bilingual, in view of the fact there are numerous minorities living and doing business in the affected areas.

City Manager David Rowe, who is also executive director of the agency, told Craft the city had complied with the law in publicizing the hearings.

The businessman argued that the city was pushing the redevelopment plan in an effort to beat the Jan. 1, 1977, deadline. Once this deadline is past, new, more stringent rules governing redevelopment will come into effect, Creft said.

"It's a plain case of going too fast, too soon," charged Creft, who has lived in the area for the past 26 years.

New government rules on redevelopment become effective on Jan.1. These rules stipulate that 20 per cent of all redevelopment funds must be diverted to low-and middle-income housing in redevelopment area.

The city set the target date for passage of a final redevelopment plan before Jan. 1, so it would not be compelled to set aside these funds for housing, redevelopment planner Fred DeJarlais had said in an earlier interview.

Both Project Area Committee Chairman Frank Spadarella and Rowe traced the progress of the redevelopment scheme since its inception several years ago.

Spadarella, who has been chairman for the past 2½ years (since the PAC was formed), said it was vitally important that the Council RA accept the final plan if the business areas are to be revitalized.

In recent years, the Mission-Junipero Serra business streets have suffered from deteriorating business. Shop-owners blame construction of major shopping centers in the Daly City area for this revenue decline.

Lawsuit On Bruno Peak Plan

An action seeking dismissal of a lawsuit aimed at overturning the County Board of Supervisors' vote to approve a modified development plan in the "saddle area" of San Bruno Mountain was filed Tuesday by Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson.

The matter is scheduled for a court hearing next Tuesday before Presiding Superior Court Judge Robert E. Carey.

The Supervisors last summer, by a 3 to 2 vote, approved development for San Bruno Mountain in some areas but denied permission for extensive construction in the saddle area.

Visitacion Associates, the would-be developers, responded with a lawsuit filed both in San Mateo County and before the California Supreme Court alleging, in essence, that the board's vote was an illegal zoning action.

The suit further alleged that the board failed to take issues such as unemployment and a purported housing shortage into consideration.

Sorenson said that the demurrer filed today takes the opposite stand, and contends that the Visitacion suit fails to allege an issue suitable for trial should be dismissed.

Peeking Out From Under The Holly?

Ever get the feeling somebody is watching you?

If you are in one of the many local department stores, there's a good chance someone is.

In an effort to deter shoplifting and apprehend those who carry out department store theft, retailers are resorting to all sorts of devices and techniques to make the life of the security guard a little easier.

Even the non-shoplifter — the most honest guy in town — is affected by the petty-theft crackdown.

Take a close look and you're likely to see:

- Leather jackets, men's suits and better ladies wear chained to racks.
- Expensive silverware, knives and other utensils locked in cabinets.
- Power tools hooked together to shelves with a heavy chain.
- Videotape cameras whirling in corners — sometimes monitored at an isolated security office.
- Fitting rooms patrolled by checkers who keep track of every item the customer tries on.

Some smaller discount clothing stores have one large fitting room with no partitions — obviously not suited for the modest.

Montgomery Ward in Serramonte has two-way mirrors in strategic locations throughout the store.

Another local department store has "air-vents" near the roof that aren't air-vents at all but rather screens for security guards to keep an eye on suspicious customers.

Are such security measures intimidating the honest customer?

Not at all, department store security officials say.

"We feel our customers have grown to accept it," said Don Neuner, security chief at J. C. Penney Co. in Tanforan. Increased shoplifting, Neuner said, means a loss for the store and higher prices for customers. He said he believes the average customer understands that.

The idea, said Macy's security chief Chris Curnan, is "to keep the honest people honest."

"Your honest customers won't remember who had fitting room checkers and who didn't," he said. Such security measures as fitting room checkers, who assign fitting rooms, count garments and collect them, also are performing a customer service, he said.

Commercial Service Systems, Inc., in Foster City is in the business of studying shoplifters and advising stores how to control theft.

Assistant division manager Orlie Esquibel says this is a society in which store security, both visible and undercover, has become accepted.

"It doesn't bother the legitimate customer," Esquibel said. "It does bother the person who is going in there with the idea of stealing."

Fire in DC

Woman Pulled From Apartment

Daly City firemen wearing self-contained breathing apparatus forced their way into a smoke choked apartment Monday night and pulled an unconscious woman to safety.

Mary Lemons, 55, of 2 West Cavour Stree, Apt. 5, was reported Street, be in critical condition today at the St. Francis Hospital Burn Center in San Francisco with second and third-degree burns over 25 per cent of her body.

She also suffered from smoke inhalation, according to Battalion Chief Mel Hansen.

The two firemen who pulled the woman out of the blazing building were identified as Ron Raymond and Ervin Kessler.

The pair donned the special breathing equipment on arrival at the fire scene. As they entered the apartment, they saw the woman lying on the living room floor, Hansen said.

Minutes earlier, Ed and Karen Denatale had spotted the fire while visiting friends in the neighborhood.

Firemen were called and the Denatales ran into the INTIMIDATING?

A SHOPLIFTER'S HANG-UP

Crackdown

knowledge, are probably inconveniencing persons arrested for petty theft more than any other court," Marr said.

In many other courts, he said, the judges hand over a minimal fine and let the shoplifter off easy. In some larger jurisdictions, for example, the first shoplifting often is reduced to a trespassing charge and some courts won't even bother with thefts of less than $50.

But the Northern Court, he said, is giving shoplifters — particularly first-timers — something to think about.

On the first offense, Marr said, a shoplifter meets with a probation officer for an informal report. If the shoplifter appears to think the charge is a laughing matter, the probation office is likely to recommend an overnight visit to the county jail — "just to give him something to think about," Marr said.

On the second offense, a formal probation report will be prepared and a stiff fine is inevitable.

"The third time, look out. They might as well bring a toothbrush," Marr said. Many of the adults, he observed, are horrified and they can admit to no one that they shoplifted.

"Those kind, we can rest assured we will never see again," he said.

Nearly 90 per cent of the adults arrested for shoplifting plead guilty and get it over with. Only a handful ask for a jury trial, and the ones who do usually have good reason.

For example, in a recent North County case, a pregnant woman and her husband were arrested after they were seen leaving a Serramonte store with baby clothing they hadn't paid for. The jury trial revealed that the woman had suddenly become ill and had rushed out of the store, completely forgetting about the clothing. They were found not guilty.

Only 5 per cent of those arrested, Marr said, are professionals with special coats and equipment such as bags or boxes designed for shoplifting. The rest are people like the housewife next door and the local bank president.

A new law on Jan. 1 will make fines of $50 to $1,000 mandatory for first-time shoplifters. Chances of getting off the hook on simple summary probation will be eliminated.

It also permits a county jail sentence of up to six months for a first-time offense.

Cretan said, however, that increased fines may have little effect in decreasing shoplifting. For many of those arrested, the financial motive is not involved. They have a pocketful of cash while they are stealing a 99-cent item.

What most people don't realize, Marr said, is that adults can no longer have their arrest records permanently sealed. A guilty plea on arrest records can be changed to not guilty by the court but it can never be erased from that rap sheet.

Shoplifting is considered a "crime of moral turpitude" and if you have aspirations for certain kinds of jobs in the near future, a shoplifting conviction can wipe those plans out, Marr said.

For example, any jobs that require bonding — supermarket checkers, bank tellers and department store clerks among them — would be off-limits for a convicted shoplifter, no matter how small the theft.

And, said Ron Sullivan of the county private defenders office, employment in certain professional jobs is affected as well. If two police officers are vying for a sergeant's post, Sullivan said, it's likely that the shoplifting conviction of one officer will be used as the tie-breaker.

"Sooner or later it will come back on him," Sullivan said.

Department stores have lost all patience with the shoplifter. Most of the major local chains are prosecuting everybody and anybody who lifts anything from a 99-cent comb to a $200 radio.

They absolutely will not accept a shoplifter's offer to pay for the merchandise — no matter what the price of the item.

Don Neuner, Penney's security chief, says his store prosecutes every individual, regardless of his or her excuse.

"We offer everything to the police department," Neuner said at the Tanforan store. "If the district attorney wants to prosecute, it's his decision."

Nearly everyone wants to pay for the stolen item and most of them have the money in their pockets to do so, he said.

"You get tired of being hit by the same people," said Jim Arwick at The Treasury in South San Francisco. The store's annual losses through shoplifting justify heavy prosecutions, he claimed.

"Let's face it. Retail businesses are out there to make money," Arwick said.

If stores allow shoplifters to pay for the stolen merchandise, rather than pressing charges and getting involved in time-consuming court procedures, it would be "reneging our duties," said Steve Olivera of Montgomery Ward security in Daly City.

"If it becomes known we let them walk on the first time, we would become even more of a target," said Chris Curnan at Macy's in Daly City. "If the only penalty to stealing something is to give it back, we would have them lining up outside the door waiting to steal."

Any adult, regardless of his age, is a potential shoplifter. A North County judge several months ago sentenced an 81-year-old woman to three years summary probation and ordered that she never shop alone again.

Marr recalls an elderly gentleman who stole a carton of cigarettes and a pound of bacon. In his probation report, Marr realized the man simply craved attention. The probation official took him out for rides several times a week and the old man kept his hands clean from shoplifting until his death two years later.

The increasing number of arrests of average citizens — housewives and community leaders among them — makes the nonprofessional a serious problem.

Olivera at Wards recalls a 66-year-old man who stole a 50-foot tape measure. Stopped outside the store doors, the man hurled the tape measure at the security guards. It took three guards to subdue him.

Hours later, a distraught wife and daughter arrived at the security office protesting that "this sweet old man" had been beaten.

Not many arrests, however, are violent. Recently at Wards an 89-year-old man wheeled a barbecue pit out the door and simply put it in his car, where he was quietly arrested.

Techniques, according to Commercial Service Systems, Inc., in Foster City, are innumerable. Their shoplifting studies reveal such methods as shoving merchandise into slightly opened umbrellas, gift-wrapped boxes, paper towel rolls, and of course, oversized purses and briefcases.

"Nothing would surprise me," Neuner said. "Anything that's not tied down could be shoplifted."

Commercial Services also provides stores with a handbook for the clerk and security guard. They recommend that an adult shoplifter be arrested when, among other things, he or she has no identification, attacks store personnel, has a prior record, or appears to be under the influence of drugs.

On the other hand, they suggest it is prudent to release the suspect when it appears he or she honestly forgot to pay, is senile or pregnant and "would probably receive great sympathy from a jury or a judge," or appears "contrite" and offers complete cooperation.

If the store has booked so many shoplifters recently that the amount of time being spent in court is becoming a problem, a suspect might be treated more leniently.

Most stores don't adhere to those guidelines. You aren't likely to garner much sympathy from a security guard in this county.

Security guards have already heard every excuse in the book.

They've heard shoplifters of all ages and economic backgrounds plead with security guards to accept the money for the stolen item.

They've heard the one about, "I didn't realize I'd left the store."

And they've heard the defense that the customer was tired of waiting in line to purchase the item — so he walked out the door in protest.

"They're excuses but they are weak excuses," Neuner said. "We would like to believe and emphathize with all those people."

"Everyone has a story and a great many stories are sincere," said Curnan at Macy's. "But let's face it. I don't work for Safeway and we don't have anything to eat. If they take something, it's not because they have to have it."

One of the services provided by CSS is a shoplifter's profile. Firms that contract with CSS turn in a survey form every time they apprehend a shoplifter — including the statement of that shoplifter. How do shoplifters explain their crime?

"I forgot to pay."

"My daughter accidently pushed the cart out the door."

"I did it because I didn't have any money."

"It was a stupid mistake."

Violence

they said, is that they moved to their neighborhood because it is near schools and playgrounds for the convenience of their children.

They know of a young boy who was turned upside down by older children when he refused to empty his pockets.

They know of a first grade child walking through the school yard who was told he wasn't going to live if he didn't give the older ones 25 cents a day. The child was so confused, he lost his way and was missing for two hours.

Mrs. P. watched from her own window one morning as a first grade child attempted to go to school. She saw him walk up and down the street several times and then noticed two older girls — probably in the sixth grade — standing at the top. They had told the little boy that they were going to beat him up.

She is pressing charges against a 17-year-old boy in evening court. Two witnesses — both teen-agers — have been subpoened.

The problem, she said, is that some time between the incidents and the court appearance, witnesses clam up and stories change.

The mothers believe from what they have heard that the older youth gangs and gang leaders that peer group pressure squelches many incidents that should go to court.

But juvenile officers in both cities say they have received few complaints from those areas — not necessarily because incidents haven't occurred.

Daly City Officer Dennis Pinnatore said he thinks many of the stories are exaggerated. There's no doubt, however, that juvenile problems are occuring in that area, he said.

Just this week, a teenager was arrested for extortion, assault and battery near the FDR campus, Pinnatore said.

But frequently, he said, officers go to the scene of alleged juvenile crimes and no one will step forward as a witness.

"If we get names, we can investigate," Pinnatore said.

Sgt. Tony Conte in Pacifica said the invitation to attend the meeting was the first he heard of juvenile problems at Fairmont West.

It's a vicious cycle, however. The parents say both they and the children are afraid to come forward. The mothers are hoping the meeting helps to resolve that fear.

The Thursday meeting, they said, is not intended to be a session of stories. They want to achieve cooperation between the two cities to fight juvenile problems.

apartment to alert occupants. In all, about 12 persons were routed from the blazing three-story building, Hansen said.

He said the fire was confined to the victim's apartment, causing some $7,000 in damage.

It was believed the fire started when a cigarette fell into an overstuffed chair in the living room, Hansen said.

"The fire must have smoldered a long time before we got there," Hansen said. "Both overstuffed chairs were completely consumed."

Commissioner of Publicity

Tonight is Serramonte High School's "Back to School Night" from 7:30 to 9 p.m. This is a good opportunity for parents to meet and talk with their children's teacher.

If you haven't seen Serramonte's production of "The Crucible" yet, don't miss the final performances this Friday and Saturday nights at 8 in the Serramonte Little Theater. To assure that you have a seat, get a ticket from a member of the cast or call the school at 992-9555. Don't miss the opportunity to see this great production.

SERRAMONTE'S HOMECOMING dance was one of the best and most well-attended dances that Serramonte has had in a long time.

There were approximately 400 people present and everyone was dancing and having a good time to the music of the group "Grand Theft." Electrical equipment such as a strobe light and a glitter ball were rented to give the dance a real "disco" atmosphere.

A highlight of the dance was the announcement of the winners of the Homecoming election that day. The winners announced by the Commissioner of Elections, Allison Weaver, were King and Queen, Greg Isom and Ava Pointer; Senior Prince and Princess, George Jackson and Karen Madrieres; Junior Prince and Princess, Al Hughes and Lynette Magee; Sophomore Prince and Princess, Bobby Martinez and Pam Scheffler; and Freshmen Prince and Princess, Joe Nobles and Melisha Hannon.

The Queen was presented with a bouquet of white roses and wore the traditional Queen's crown and red velvet cape and carried a scepter. The class Princesses were presented with red roses and crowns. The King was given a white rose boutonniere and the Princes were given red ones.

Last year's reigning King and Queen, Evan Pappas and Delia Castro, were present to participate in the ceremonies.

SPECIAL THANKS goes to Serramonte's Executive Board, Jonny Law, teacher Mr. Ted Tanisawa, Vice Principal Mr. Dion DuBois, and Serramonte's custodial staff who all helped to make the dance the success that it was.

CALIFORNIA JUNIOR STATESMEN (C.J.S.) is a politically oriented organization as well as a social club which involves many students at Serramonte.

The Golden Gate Region of C.J.S. recently held an all-day conference at Washington High School in San Francisco which some of Serramonte's C.J.S. members attended. It was entitled "The New Politics" and included seminars on the United States Senate and Presidential races, as well as seminars on environment, mental health, and third parties. One of the guest speakers was San Francisco Mayor George Moscone.

On Nov. 19, 20, and 21, the C.J.S. will have its annual state conference in Sacramento. Serramonte students as well as other students from throughout California will stay in a hotel next to the capital. Some excellent debates, seminars, and social activities are planned.

Robert Foiles, president of the Serramonte chapter of C.J.S. as well as the mayor of the Golden Gate Region of C.J.S., says that new members are welcome and any student interested should contact any club member or the advisor, Bob Goldberg.

Daly City DAR Meet Thursday

The members of San Andreas Lake Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will meet on Thursday at the Daly City home of Patricia Moloney for a 12:30 p.m. dessert luncheon and program.

Mrs. Bernard Schiller, chapter registrar, will officially welcome two new members into the society: Mrs. James F. Kelly of South San Francisco, and Mrs. Francis W. Joyce of Foster City.

The guest speaker will be Eldon Earnhardt, an anthropology instructor at Canada College, who will discuss the culture of the Pacific Coast Indians.

One of the society's aims is to assist in the education of needy American Indians by providing funds and scholarships to students of Bacone College, Oklahoma, and St. Mary's School for Indians, South Dakota.

At the November meeting plans will be made for the fund-raising potluck dinner to be held at the Foster City home of Mrs. R. Thomas Christy, chapter regent, Dec. 11 at 7 p.m.

Area Cooks in Diet Recipe Bake-off

The Diet Workshop held its annual recipe contest recently in each group.

Two members from Daly City are among the finalists who will compete in the area wide runoff. Sue Machi of 80 Acacia St. entered her recipe for "Zucchini Balls Supreme" and Marjorie Dwyer of 75 Northridge Drive contributed her "Breakfast Cookie."

Approximately 35 finalists from Northern California will enter their recipes in the contest, which will take place later in November.

There will be three categories judged: snack time, meal time and party time. Sue's entry is in the meal time category and Marjorie's "Cookie" is used as part of the breakfast meal.

Other free recipes may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: The Diet Workshop, 2533 Taraval Street, San Francisco, 94116.

Crash Cuts Power

Power to several homes in the 200 block of Harold Road, Brisbane was cut off early Saturday morning after a pickup truck sheared off a utility pole.

Brisbane police reported the arrest of Daniel Edward Sullivan, 24, of 626 Sieera Point Road, Brisbane, on drunken driving charges, following the accident.

Sullivan was driving along Harold Road when he apparently lost control of his vehicle, hit the pole and broke a water line.

Emergency crews repaired the water main and restored power to the area within an hour, according to police.

Sullivan's truck was teetering on the edge of a 50 foot high embankment and Sullivan was wandering around in a daze, when police arrived on the scene, a police department spokesman said.

JUHSD Lowers Fees For Senior Citizens

During their meeting Oct. 5, the Jefferson Union High School District Board of Trustees adopted a policy allowing adults who have reached 60 years of age to receive a "Senior Citizen Courtesy Card," entitling them admission to all co-curricular and/or educational events (drama productions, athletic contests, adult education classes, special events and others).

These cards may be obtained at each of the six high schools in the district, as well as the Jefferson Union High School District Office (375 South Mayfair Avenue, Westlake Building, Room 214, Daly City.)

Plans have also been made for school officials to distribute these cards at various senior citizens' meetings.

Hospital Adds Nine To Board

Nine new members have been elected to the Mary's Help Hospital Community Advisory Board, established to improve relationships between the hospital and neighboring communities.

They are:

Henry Duque, executive vice president of Western Federal Savings and Loan, Burlingame; Mary Marple, assistant director of Health Care Services for San Mateo county; Patricia Maffei, community representative; Walter McDanlet, manager of Security Pacific National Bank, Daly City.

Rev. Jacqueline Meadows of St. Paul's United Methodist Church of South San Francisco; attorney Dan Modena of South San Francisco; Rev. Msgr. Richard Power of Our Lady of Mercy parish, Daly City; Mark Savage, director of the Pacifica Youth Service Bureau; and San Francisco attorney John E. Sullivan.

Instructor Is Needed

The Pacifica Parks, Beaches and Recreation Department is looking for a qualified instructor to teach a children's class in "Strings and Things." This class deals with specific projects in macrame and weaving and other related areas.

Police Agencies Join Chase

An armada of police from Pacifica south to Los Altos — with a helicopter tracking overhead — chased a Pacifica man for nearly an hour before they finally bagged him Friday in Palo Alto.

Officers from nine jurisdictions, as well as the San Mateo County Sheriff's helicopter, fell in like dominoes as the estranged husband of a Pacifica woman allegedly fled down Interstate 280.

Police said the man, William Thomas Boyd, 26, had gotten into an argument with his wife shortly before 3 p.m. and then dashed out of the house, taking the couple's two-year-old son with him.

A broadcast was sent out for officers to be on the lookout for the suspect, who was reportedly driving a 1966 Ford Mustang.

About three miles south of the woman's home, Officer Tom Severance spotted the suspect on Highway One and began following him from there to Interstate 280.

During the chase, units from the California Highway Patrol, San Bruno, Burlingame, the San Mateo County Sheriff's Office, Belmont, San Carlos, Santa Clara County, and Los Altos at one time or another joined in the chase.

At some point in the chase, police said, Boyd tried to run both officers and a citizen off the road.

Boyd was finally arrested at Page Mill Road in Palo Alto by Los Altos police and Pacifica officer Herb Cowan. He was charged with reckless driving and assault with a deadly weapon against a police officer and a citizen.

He was jailed in Redwood City.

END OF LONG CHASE

This was the end of a 45-mile chase Friday afternoon that began in Pacifica when the Pacifica Police Department tried to stop a vehicle for suspected "child stealing." The chase ended in Palo Alto on Highway 280. There were no injuries to the child or to officers and the suspect was taken into custody.

Menlo Park Ruse Leads To Rape

A man who gained entry to the apartment of a 32-year-old Menlo Park woman Thursday morning by telling her his car had just struck her parked car, raped and robbed her of $12, Menlo Park police reported.

The woman told officers that the man forced her to submit to him at the point of a knife. After sexually assaulting her, she reported, the man took $12 from her purse.

Visitor Killed

A Michigan man trying to make a left turn on Junipero Serra Boulevard early Saturday was killed instantly by another driver trying to pass him on the left.

The driver of the other car, Ivo G. Regjo, 23, a San Francisco State University student who lives at 176 Werner Ave., in Daly City, was taken into custody immediately after treatment for head injuries.

He was charged with felony drunken driving and vehicular manslaughter. Bail was set at $2,500.

According to police, Kolman was driving south on Junipero Serra Boulevard near Westlake Avenue about 3:40 a.m.

As he was attempting a left turn into an open lot, Regjo allegedly crossed over the double yellow line to pass Kolman on the left, hitting him broadside.

A pet dog riding in Kolman's car was uninjured and was taken into protective custody by the Peninsula Humane Society.

Mission

They feel that redevelopment holds the key to stimulation of business, Spadarella said.

Rowe said the cost of "no action" on the plan could run as high as $19 million in lost revenues to the city over the next 10 years.

Once the plan is formally adopted (within 30 days), the agency will have powers of condemnation.

Irregular-size lots which now dot the area will likely be condemned, combined and resold to the highest bidder for development, according to present plans.

Presently the target areas "are not developed to utilize their full potential," Rowe said.

In its final shove to begin implementation of the plan, Spadarella explained that the PAC members are now meeting weekly instead of monthly.

"I'm not saying we have mastered the concept (of redevelopment) but we have diligently pursued the task," he said.

The legal plan is only a framework for actual redevelopment of the areas, Spadarella said.

"The future of our businesses, our homes, hinges on adoption of this plan," Spadarella, owner of a restaurant in the target area, said

George Kirchhubel, a tavern owner at the Top of the Hill on Mission Street, pleaded with the council to preserve the site of the old Jefferson Elementary School, built in 1866, and believed to be the oldest school in the North Peninsula area.

"This (site) should be preserved," Kirchhubel said. "There are too many historical places going."

Kirchhubel, considered to be an expert on the history of Daly City, said he wasn't trying to impede progress "if it's done right."

But the people have very few things of historical significance left in the Daly City, he said.

Councilman William Schumacher explained that there was "a great deal of protection for property owners built into the redevelopment law and he invited citizens to work with the city in developing plans.

"It's your city, your town. We want to go slow and do it right," Schumacher said.

Mother, Daughter Bound and Raped

A mother and daughter were bound, beaten, raped and otherwise sexually abused, 6 a.m. today in their third floor San Mateo apartment where both were sleeping.

At the same time Burlingame police are investigating a third rape case. It involves a 16-year-old San Francisco girl who was driven to Burlingame and raped there during the early morning hours.

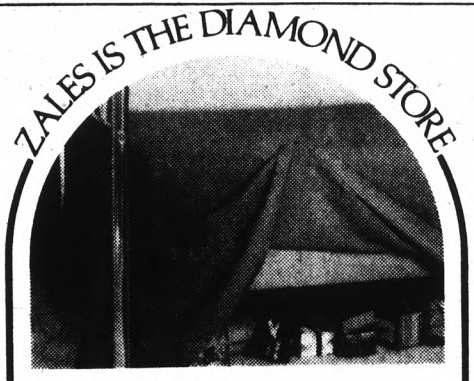

Sgt. Richard Ryan and Officer William Culmer, first on the scene, said both women had been beaten about the face and head with what appeared to have been a claw hammer. They were taken to Mills Hospital for treatment and will recover, police said. The mother, a woman in her 40s, has been visiting from Kansas. The daughter is in her 20s.

Boutique de Noel Still In Hospital Solarium

Lorianne Heath

Just a few days left to visit the Boutique de Noel in the solarium of Mary's Help Hospital!

Mrs. Mary Dunow, chairman of this year's fund raising event, sponsored by the Mary's Help Hospital Guild, is anxious for everyone to know the sale will end on Sunday. Despite the fact that the boutique is winding down, there are still many items left for holiday shoppers to select. The needlework items are especially nice and the display of decorations for your Christmas tree or holiday door are colorful and novel.

Shoppers will be happy to know that all proceeds from the boutique are donated to the fund to purchase special cardiac equipment for the hospital.

There is still time to order Christmas cards and help with the same project. Cards are on display in the solarium and orders take about two weeks to process.

Guild members will be meeting on Friday to assess the success of the opening days of the boutique and to plan activities through the Christmas holidays. Members of the tray favor committee will start work at 10:30 a.m. and members of the executive board will be meeting at the same hour. The general meeting and luncheon will start at 12:30 p.m.

"HARVEST DANCE" was the theme of the dance sponsored by the Riordan Guild and Club last weekend.

Parents and friends of Riordan High School met in Chaminade Hall to dance to the music of Maurice Wolohan and enjoy a midnight buffet.

Members of the dance committee included Mrs. Betty Feeley, Mrs. Connie Natividad, Mrs. Gladys Moore and Mrs. Ronald Robles.

DECEMBER 9, is the day members of the Pacifica Plus Club have selected for their annual Christmas dinner at the South San Francisco Elk's Club.

No bus will be provided for the trip from Pacifica to South San Francisco, but members who want to go should contact Mrs. Elizabeth Rentmeester concerning car pools. The traditional gift exchange will not take place, but a program of entertainment is being arranged. The Daly City Seniors have been invited to join this party, according to Mrs. Edna Laurel Calhan.

IF YOU TUNED in Channel 14 over the past weekend to catch the taxpayers' panel on proposed property tax increases in the North County you probably are wondering what happened to all those people scheduled to take part.

Mrs. Riva Krips, who helped put the show together, called in after last week's publication date, to announce that the show has been postponed. A new date is being sought and the panel probably will appear sometime in December. Mrs. Krips promised to publicize the new date as soon as possible.

GIFTS COSTING approximately $2 and suitable for giving to children between the ages of 1 and 12 years are being sought by the members of the Holy Angels Latin Club for the annual Daly City Children's Christmas party.

Donations of gifts should be brought, unwrapped to the rectory at Holy Angeles Catholic Church. A second need exists for small, wrapped candies to fill pinatas and the candies may be left in the same manner in the rectory, marked for the Latin Club Christmas party.

THE NEXT MEETING of the Balboa High School Alumni Association will be held tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in the high school.

Vickie Hackett, the secretary, reports that the plans for the alumni-varsity basketball game, to be held on January 8, will be discussed.

No reservations are needed. If you would like to attend the board has indicated that everyone who has ever attended Balboa is welcome at all functions.

Arrest Brings End to Freedom for Michael Cain

Michael Cain, 23, may be named about the same as that British movie star, Michael Caine, but he doesn't have the same kind of luck.

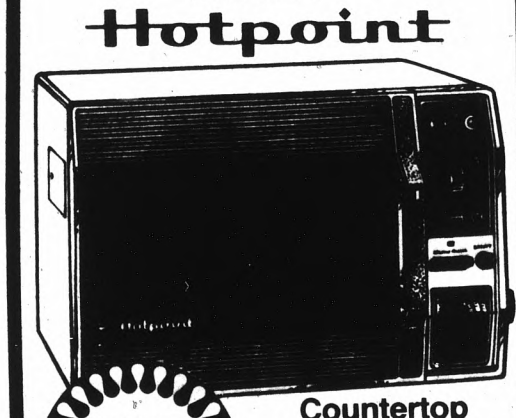

Cain a resident of South San Francisco, reportedly was found lying in the street on Park Road in Burlingame Wednesday night. He was arrested as a drunk, according to police.

While booking him at the Burlingame City Jail, police said, they found a metal foil package containing what appeared to be hashish, in one of his pockets.

While he was being booked for possession of hashish, Cain reportedly kicked and punched at officers. They locked him in a padded cell and ran his identification through police computers.

Within minutes, word came back to hold Cain without bail. He was on probation, and his probation officer was revoking his freedom.

Bank Robber Guilty

William Armand Sjostrom was convicted of the September, 1975, robbery of a Millbrae bank Nov. 9 by a San Mateo County Superior Court jury.

Sjostrom, 32, of San Pablo, had entered a single plea of not guilty by reason of insanity.

The jury rejected that in returning its verdict after one day of deliberation in the seven-day trial before Judge G. Brooks Ice.

Sjostrom defended by attorney Dick Bennett of San Mateo, was convicted of robbing the United California Bank and taking $575 cash. He was apprehended in a nearby bar 20 minutes after the holdup.

In his initial Superior Court appearance before Judge Frank Piombo, Sjostrom was adjudged to be incompetent to stand trial, and the judge ordered him committed to Atascadero State Hospital. He was returned to San Mateo County after two psychiatrists reported that he was sane and competent to stand trial.

Prosecutor in the case was Deputy Dist. Atty. John Oakes.

Judge Ice scheduled sentencing for Nov. 30 at 9 a.m.

What 11-Year-Old Knows About Alcohol May Come as Surprise

By JANET PARKER

Your 11-year-old may know more about alcohol than you think.

In fact, he may not only have many young friends who are drinking regularly but also may be getting drunk on occasion.

South San Francisco School District health education specialist Pat Ross says teachers and parents of elementary school children are generally naive about the involvement of pre-teens with alcohol.

Last year, Mrs. Ross and a community health intern, Eileen Gallagher, put together a six-day unit on alcohol education for sixth grade classes at El Rancho School.

It was an experimental course, designed to give the elementary school student accurate information about a drug that he is most likely already familiar with to some extend.

Beginning in January, the unit will be taught to sixth grade students in all 14 elementary schools.

The sixth grader is at an awkward stage and unsure of relationships with fellow students. Many are terrified at the thought of attending seventh grade when they leave the security of elementary school and become low men on the totem pole in junior high school.

That's one reason, Miss Gallagher said, that it is specially important to reach the sixth grade student and give him intelligent information about alcohol use and its abuse.

"I was shocked how many kids have already been drinking," said Miss Gallagher, a San Francisco State University graduate. She said she was surprised at their maturity — and their attempted maturity as well.

"We found a lot of them just need someone to talk to about it," she said.

Of the 87 sixth grade students who participated in the unit last spring, 23 admitted they could use help through Ala-Teen, a nonprofit organization for teenagers who have immediate family members with alcohol problems.

Two of the 11-year-old children asked for help to solve their own drinking problems.

"There are probably even more than that drinking regularly," Miss Gallagher said.

The state now requires that alcohol education be taught in some form in public schools. High school sophomores for years have been receiving formal drug education in safety education classes. But children in lower grade levels have obtained bits and pieces of information, much of it believed to be distorted and inaccurate.

A health program called the Berkeley project is slowly spreading through the district, but won't reach all elementary grades for several years. In the meantime, Mrs. Ross said, something must be provided at the elementary level. The information passed on to sophomores probably is too late, she said.

"Kids have already made their decision by then and they're getting bombed every Friday night," she said.

Even the sixth graders have been assimilated into the American drinking culture. When Miss Gallagher asked students last year if they had ever had a drink, only a few timidly raised their hands. She reminded them that "a drink" doesn't necessarily have to mean alcohol, although in this culture it is the customary connotation

Teachers usually are reluctant to get involved in pre-teen drinking, Mrs. Ross said, viewing it as a family problem and wanting to maintain their objectivity for each individual.

The teachers consequently are required to remain in the classroom during the alcohol education unit.

"It opens their eyes to what's going on," Mrs. Ross said. "It's not something they usually talk about."

The health specialist said she receives more inquiries from parents about alcohol abuse than any other subject. Before the unit begins at any school, a meeting is slated for parents. But capturing parental concern is apparently a challenge. A meeting held before the experimental unit began last year was attended by one person — a school board trustee!

When the program resumes in January, throughout the district, it will include aspects of last year's experimental program as well as new ideas.

Students who need special help again will be invited to attend Ala-Teen meetings at the South San Francisco Boys Club, which is funding the unit.

Miss Gallagher will supervise the program there from 3 to 5 p.m. daily.

"If you don't offer kids a place to go and talk it out, you're doing more harm than good," Mrs. Ross said.

Last year, some of the parents drove their own children to the Ala-Teen meetings. Participation is entirely anonymous and parents are welcome.

After they graduate from the sixth grade, the pupils may participate in sessions for teen-agers at Southgate Methodist Church.

"Many of the kids didn't realize others in their class had the same problem," Miss Gallagher said.

The first day of the unit is for getting acquainted. Each student makes a name tag — labeling himself something he has always wanted to be called.

Then, Miss Gallagher has each write additional information on the tag, answering such questions as, "How are you feeling?" and "What are three words that describe you?"

The students talk over their decisions in groups.

In another exercise, students take turns bragging about themselves, with the wholehearted encouragement of their classmates and teachers. Students tell the appointed braggart he's the greatest in whatever his particular skill is — playing the trumpet, baton twirling or dancing, for example.

It's an attempt at finding their likes and dislikes and building their self-confidence.

"Many decisions are based on peer-group pressure," Mrs. Ross said. "This shows they are unique individuals and they can make their own decisions."

On other days, they put together collages representing different kinds of advertising tactics to sell projects, write answers to Dear Abby letters on alcohol problems and act out scripts dealing with situations in alcohol use.

They also discuss the various social uses for alcohol and hear an Ala-Teen speaker.

The unit, Mrs. Ross said, is not just about alcohol but about the feelings and emotions which accompany a pre-teen's decisision making.

Miss Gallagher stays on campus through the lunch hour to meet with students and discuss privately their individual alcohol concerns.

They close the program with the "IALAC" story — a lesson based on cards representing "I am lovable and capable."

"You can do like so many education programs do and just give the facts," she said, "but, then, they don't know what to do."

"Any alcoholic will tell you the two biggest things are the loneliness and the fear," she said. "We hit at the idea they are not alone and they can handle fear."

Student Succumbs

David DeWeese, the 17-year-old Crestmoor High School student who collapsed Thursday while jogging on the school track, died Friday at 8:30 p.m. at Peninsula Hospital in Burlingame.

An autopsy was scheduled today to determine the cause of death. The youth is thought to have suffered a heart seizure.

A memorial service has been planned for 3 p.m. Monday at Bethany Presbyterian Church in San Bruno, where the youth's father, the Rev. George DeWeese, is pastor.

Walter Johnson, the hospital chaplain, and the Rev. James C. McCloskey, a close friend of the family who is the pastor of a Presbyterian church in Sonora, will conduct the services. Arrangements are under the direction of San Bruno Funeral Home.

Instead of flowers, the family prefers that a scholarship fund be established at Crestmoor in David's name.

David had been unconscious and in critical condition since the attack Tuesday following what were reportedly routine calisthenics.

His physical education teacher, Ralph Daniels, said David suddenly collapsed as he was jogging around the track. The youth was rushed to Peninsula Hospital. He was thought to have been in otherwise good health.

Kay DeWeese, the youth's mother, expressed the family's appreciation to the hospital staff, David's

Auto Hits Children; Two Hurt

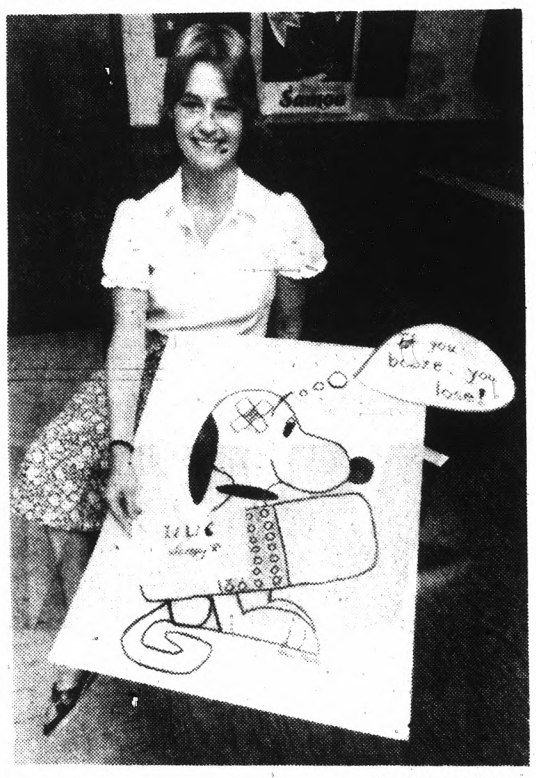

A group of San Mateo children walking across an intersection en route to school Monday morning was struck by an auto, police reported.

Two children were admitted for treatment at Chope Hospital. Mike Ryall, 5, was reported in critical condition in the hospital's intensive care unit where he is being treated for head injuries.

Lourdes Martinez, 8, suffered a possible broken leg and was reported to be in satisfactory condition.

Two other children, Joy Ryall, 6, and Ken Kumpula, 9, were knocked down by the impact, receiving minor abrasions. Both were treated and released at Chope Hospital.

San Mateo police said the accident occurred at 8:10 a.m. as the Lakeshore School children crossed the intersection of Los Prados and La Selva.

Coffee-table books. They are big, colorful and delightful. When stripped of their fancy name they are seen to be adult picture books that are created, as Wordsworth wrote, to fill our pastimes with happiness.

Coffee table books are printed tall and wide to accommodate hundreds of gaily colored pictures and a minimum amount of writing. Each resembles an issue of "National Geographic Magazine" or of the now defunct periodicals, "Life and Look." They are printed with deep black ink on sparkling, easy-eye paper. Their covers are splashed with blue or pink or lustrous white and boast titles and authors names in bold letters.

Coffee table books are printed to please a generation that made comic books a hit 10 or 20 years ago. Whole sections of them can be read during a stolen moment of a busy day, during a hurried lunch — for example — or during a TV commercial.

The sentences in coffee table books are short and pithy so they may be found easily and quoted to ice an argument or start a conversation. They employ simple words with pleasant sounds that stick in the mind for future reference.

COFFEE TABLE BOOKS treat every subject in the world. "Clothing Liberation" (Laura Torbet, Praeger, 1973) tells how to take your old clothes out of the closet and "with a little ingenuity and imagination" turn them into apparel that is "fashionable and practical, individual and inexpensive."

"Vanishing Wild Animals of the World" by Richard Fitter and John Leigh-Pemberton (Watts 1968), "Last Survivors" by Simon and Geroudet (World 1970), "Wild Life Crisis" by the Duke of Edinburgh and James Fisher (Cowles 1970), "Wildlife of California" by George Seymour of the State Department of Fish and Game, bring the whole field of ecology to light.

History is a favorite theme for the creators of coffee table books. There is Oscar Handlin's "Pictorial History of Immigration" (Crown 1972). "200 Years" (U.S. News and World Report) is a bicentennial history with many pictures of America's past that have seldom been seen before. Paul Sanns' "The Lawless Decade" (Bonanza 1972) brings the Twenties back to Life. "Dog Soldiers, Bear Men and Buffalo Women" by Thomas E. Mails (Prentice-Hall 1973) recreates the culture of the American Indian with all its color and its romance.

The hottest items of coffee table books fall into the how-to-do-it category. Among them in Dona Z. Meilach's "Soft Sculpture" which illustrates how to create with stuffed fabrics, fibers and plastics. The "Family Crochet Book" from Hamlyn 1972 represents rows upon rows of picture books relating to sewing, knitting and like skills.

"Oil Painting: Step-By-Step" by Arthur L. Guptill (Watson-Guptill 1965) is one of many that can turn common men and women into artists. "The Home Fix It Encyclopedia" (Westport Corp. 1974) opens to the housewife and her husband the world of tools and paint brushes. "Ideas for Remodeling Your Home" is one of many volumes of how-to-do-it issued by Sunset Press.

COOKBOOK PUBLISHERS have turned to coffee table books for a method of presenting recipes in pictures. In coffee table books, the movie world of the 30's, 40's and 50's has experienced a reincarnation. Especially notable is a set from Cadillac Publishing Co. that devotes a whole volume each of selected stars that Hollywood made great.

Hospital Opens Alcohol Hotline

The Mary's Help Hospital CAREUNIT program (Comprehensive Alcoholic Rehabilitation Environment Unit) has established a 24-hour alcoholism information "hotline."

The number, 992-1700, can be used by persons seeking general information on alcoholism, referrals to alcoholism programs or specific information about the CAREUNIT program.

The CAREUNIT program at Mary's Help operates in three stages: an inpatient program of about 26 days, which includes one to five days of detoxification followed by a three-week inpatient rehabilitation program; a 10-week outpatient counseling program; and research followup of sobriety every six months for two years.

According to Samuel McFadden, M.D., CAREUNIT medical director, the program at Mary's Help Hospital treats the disease of alcoholism on a medical, psychosocial and educational level.

The program is described as a "multi-modality treatment" by Dr. McFadden. This includes psychological counseling, several types of group therapy, patient education sessions, individual counseling and supportive maintenance.

Family sessions are an important part of the program. Outpatient seminars and group therapy programs are held for patients and their families on a regular basis, and these continue after the patient has been discharged from the program.

During hospitalization, the patient is encouraged to participate in Alcoholics Anonymous and other self-help community groups. These activities are also an integral part of followup therapy.

SM County School Districts Rated

BY JOHN HORGAN

Students in San Mateo County's public schools generally scored well on 1975-76 state tests, according to results released Thursday.

Most pupils scored above state averages.

There are at least two ways to examine how a district's children have done on the tests.

You can analyze the percentage of questions answered correctly as stated in the district mean score.

Or, you can check on how students did in terms of how they were expected to perform.

It is the latter method which has come into vogue in California in the last several years.

By using a complex set of socio-economic data as a base each district is given individual predicted ranges for each test.

Each district is different from every other district when such criteria are applied.

In this county, that is especially important because there are significant differences in the student and community makeup of certain districts.

Here is how to analyze a district's performance:

Look first at the test you are interested in. The column to the immediate right indicates how those children in that grade did in terms of questions answered correctly. That is the district mean score.

The next column provides the percentile rank of that score in that test.

The higher the percentile ranking, the better your district is ranked in the state on that particular test.

The final column involves the comparison bands. Again, this ranks the previous percentile rating in terms of a predicted range as computed from that socio-economic data mentioned before.

If your district has scored above the band in the test in question, the students did better than anticipated. If the district is ranked below the band, it didn't do as well as expected.

Often, the scores fall within the predicted ranges.

Some administrators complain that the comparison bands are not valid because the data can be manipulated to suit a district's needs if district officials care to.

Others say small districts cannot be rated in this way because the samplings are too few to be statistically accurate.

Still, the comparison bands are a means to provide you with another kind of information: they show you where the state believes you should have ranked on the tests.

In terms of correct scores, three elementary districts performed magnificently.

They are: the Hillsborough City School District, the Las Lomitas School District and the Menlo Park City School District.

Menlo Park's students scored higher than anyone else in the county.

In their six test categories, they got an average rating of 94.3 in terms of percentile ranking in California.

Las Lomitas came in second at 94.2. Hillsborough was third at 93.8.

In several categories, students in those districts also scored above the range of predicted scores as well.

In terms of those comparison bands, only one district, the Sequoia Union High School District, exceeded its predicted percentile ranking in all tests.

Sequoia students did so in all four grade 12 tests.

Four elementary districts—the Brisbane School District, the Millbrae School District, the San Mateo City School District and the Redwood City School District—exceeded their predicted ranges in five of their six tests.

Redwood City, in fact, scored high enough to be above its comparison bands by a total of 50 percentile points, the best figure among all elementary districts.

Brisbane was second with 41 percentile points over its predicted ranges.

The LaHonda-Pescadero Unified School District, which had only 407 students last year, had scores and rankings which fluctuated wildly, something the district does every year because of the relatively small testing sample.

However, there is a trend in that district which is disturbing to educators there.

In the primary grades, children from that district do rather well, scoring above thsir comparison bands consistently.

In grade 12, students in the district score poorly, falling far below their predicted scores in three of four tests.

The same sort of thing has afflicted the district before.

Several districts did not do well in last year's tests.

The worst performance came in the Bayshore School District.

There, students scored below state norms in all six tests. In addition, they fell below their predicted scoring ranges in five of six tests.

In those five, the childrsn fell 40 percentile points below what they had been expected to do.

Children in the Ravenswood City School District, which contains the highest percentage of minority youngsters in the county over 90 per cent, scored below state averages in five of six tests.

In the Jefferson Union High School District, students scored below their anticipated scoring bands by a total of 37 percentile points, the worst showing by a county high school district. Jefferson students scored below their comparison bands in three of four tests.

Along with La Honda-Pescadero, two other unified districts found their 12th graders scoring poorly.

Both the South San Francisco Unified School Disrct and the Cabrillo Unified School District had seniors who had trouble last year.

In South San Francisco, which recorded good scores among its primary pupils, 12th graders fell 42 percentile points below what had been expected of them in three tests.

In Cabrillo, the same situation occurred, with seniors dropping 21 percentile points below their comparison bands in three tests.

Both districts had seniors who scored especially poorly in mathematics.

Chase Winds Down San Bruno Streets

Two of three men accused of looting a storeroom at the Hilton Inn at the San Francisco International Airport of some $2,000 worth of expensive liquor last week were captured by a lone sheriff's deputy after a high speed pursuit through the streets of San Bruno.

Booked at the county jail on burglary charges after being captured at the dead-end of Seventh Avenue in San Bruno by Deputy Perry E. Duffey were Kenneth Wayne Werder, 27, and Douglas Comack Welsch, 26, both of whom said they have been living at a hotel in San Mateo.

Although a third man escaped after Duffey halted the other two with the warning, "Stop, or I'll shoot," his identity is known, police reported.

Duffey reported he was called to the Hilton Inn about 4 a.m. by employes who reported "suspicious activities" were going on.

As he reached the hotel parking lot, Duffey noticed a car, its license plates covered with brown paper bags, pull out. He said when he turned on his red lights, the auto sped down the exit road, onto Bayshore Freeway and over an overpass into San Bruno.

Although Duffey called for aid, none arrived as he followed the car at speeds of 70 to 80 miles per hour up and down residential and business streets of San Bruno for almost five minutes.

He said the driver apparently did not know the city well, and finally ended up at the deadend of the street. The three occupants jumped from the car, but two of them stopped with their hands in the air as a Brisbane police patrol car pulled up.

According to Duffey, the trio's car was so completely filled with liquor that there was barely room left to sit. A check at the hotel determined that a liquor storeroom had been forced into by using bolt cutters.

A Long Delay for World Series Comments

Because of mixed feelings and a desire to allow time to heal wounds, I have put off until now my comments on the World Series.

My feelings were mixed because on one hand, I wanted our league to win, and especially to allow the world to see for one week what the Giants have to put up with for a whole season. On the other hand, there was the fervent wish to see our old team, the Yankees, make an historic comeback.

True, much of the old Yankee mystique is gone, having worn itself out in the 12 long years of the unraveling of a dynasty, and so are the San Francisco Italians, who first got us rooting for the Yankees. But remnants of the old Yankees remain, if only on the sidelines, in coaches Yogi Berra and Elston Howard, and that half-Italian from Oakland, manager Billy Martin.

Well, it's long over, now, but my original impressions still linger. Not only is Cincinnati much better than the Yankees, but the whole National League is superior to the whole American League, and both the Phillies and the Yankees made the Giants look a lot better in the way they played the Reds to a standstill all season. It also made the young Giants' pitching staff look very promising for 1977, because the Giants beat Cincy with good pitching, something which the Phillies and Yankees couldn't accomplish.

And much as I hate to second-guess my old Yankee hero Billy Martin, retrospect still has not explained to me how he could have held an experienced pressure game pitcher like Kenny Holtzman out of both the playoffs and the Series, and why he couldn't get it into his head that Dock Ellis would have no more success in beating the Reds in the World Series than he did when he was pitching for Pittsburgh against the Reds in regular NL seasonal games.

ANOTHER ODDITY: If some expert would have predicted before the Series that Pete Rose and Ken Griffey, Cincy's two top men in the lineup, would have batted for a combined .121 and scored only three runs between 'em, you would have put all your money on the Yankees.

But if you were smart, you would first have checked to see what the top two men in the Yankee batting order were going to do. Because Mickey Rivers and Roy White hit only .152 and scored just one run.

As for Rivers allowing himself to be psyched out by the close-in playing of Pete Rose, Rivers might have tried pulling his own psyche job by bunting down Rose's way, and challenging him. One bad throw by Rose, one perfect bunt by Rivers, and he might have made Rose nervous.

Perhaps we're being unfair to our old Yankees. They do in fact have a very well balanced team — the best in the AL. Their misfortune was that they met a GREAT balanced team — the best in all of baseball.

ONE OF THE WIRE SERVICES said of the players involved in the so-called re-entry draft, that if the best of them were combined into one team, it might win a world championship. No way. the wire service's all-star outfield consisted of Gary Matthews, Reggie Jackson and Joe Rudi. Who would play center field? Additionally, the starting pitching would be relatively thin with only Don Gullett and Wayne Garland established as big winners (and Garland would have to face that sophomore jinx season), and there isn't a left-handed reliever in the bunch.

As for the expansion draft, it looks here like — not taking into consideration the sudden development of unknown minor leaguers — Seattle got the edge. They managed, for example, to get two players who this corner never felt would be exposed to the draft — Yankee southpaw reliever Grant Jackson and Minnesota outfielder-third baseman-designated hitter Steve Braun.

Jackson is the type of veteran left-hander the Giants could certainly use coming out of the bullpen. He was, in fact, the late season savior of the Yankees when their regular star relief man, Sparky Lyle, faltered. Jackson even started a few games for the first time in years and pitched brilliantly in that role. As for Braun, he hit a solid .288 and is a lifetime .283 hitter.

Also somewhat surprising was the "release" to Toronto of KC's right-hander Al Fitzmorris, a 15-game winner who has won 44 games in his last three seasons as a starter. True, he had late-season arm trouble, but at only age 30, he certainly seemed worth saving, especially for a team that obviously needs pitching help. Ditto for the letting go of Bill Singer by Minnesota. True, at 32 Singer has had more injuries and arm troubles than a man his age should have, but in winning 13 games this season he seemed to have made a comeback.

* * *

TIME, ALSO, for reflection on that Giants' "nothing" trade with St. Louis. I didn't necessarily like it, because I hate to see the Giants give up on the enormous potential of John D'Aquisto, but the Giants do figure to get better immediate results than St. Louis, and therein, I feel, lies the key behind the thinking of the trade.

Le Pacini

Figure it this way. Dave Rader for Vic Harris is a toss-up. A solid secondary receiver for a solid utility man. John Curtis, in effect, came for Mike Caldwell, a trading of questionable southpaws. While Curtis hasn't done much for the past few years, he at least doesn't have a history of arm surgery, as does Caldwell, and he can do almost anything and be better than Caldwell was last season.

The real trade was D'Aquisto for Willie Crawford. Crawford's .302 batting average with the Cardinals was somewhat misleading, because he didn't hit for a lot of power, and he has never been a good RBI man, except against the Giants.

Getting him away from the enemy is a plus. And, even though at age 30 he still has good speed, he has never been a particularly good outfielder. Still, he can be a good fourth outfielder and pinch-hitter and, for next season, should be more valuable than D'Aquisto would have been, unless, of course, there was a miraculous straightening away of John's head, which didn't figure, not so soon.

The Cards are established in St. Louis and can gamble on the future. The Giants no longer have that luxury. They must win now, and Crawford just might help them do it.

While we're still on trades, I approve of the 49er trade of Sammy Johnson for Jim Lash, though it hurts to lose Johnson. I always thought he was the most underrated of the 49er backs. But again, the 49ers want to win now, and Lash apparently will be of more value to them this year than Johnson would have been.

And while on the 49ers, some trivia. You know that 49er coach Monte Clark attended USC, but do you know where he was graduated?

He is actually a local boy, having picked up his sheepskin — or would that be pigskin? — at San Francisco State, 1968. And Bruce Taylor, despite many long kick return runs early in his career, has scored only two NFL touchdowns — both in the odd category of field goal returns. One was a 92-yard return on a missed attempt, the other a 55-yard return of a blocked field goal.

Pairings Announced

Rick Fambrini, tournament director, has announced the pairings for the Fourth Annual Serra Invitational Basketball Tournament.

The tourney this year will have eight teams from five different leagues in the Bay Area and will run from Dec. 8 to 11.

IF Wins 2d Game In Hunch

The Daly City Recreation Department sponsored Adult Three-Man Hunch League completed its second week of league play with the following results:

In the under 6 feet Division, IF brought their record to (2-0) by defeating BBLB, 40-22.

Mary Vigo, John Avakian and Dave Olivo led the way scoring 12, 11 and 10 pts. respectively for IF. Charlie Smithson scored 12 points for BBLB.

Rocky Sturdivant's game high 16 points paved the way for the Crows 40-26 victory over the Sticks. Bob Fiddler led the Sticks with 11 points and Don Frediani tallied 10 points for the Crows. Despite an excellent 20 point performance by Joe Hallisy, Tipp's was defeated by the Celtics 41-34.

Rene Mariluch and Roger Idiart paced the Celtics scoring 18 and 13 points respectively. Jim O'Donnell scored 11 points for Tippy's.

The Wonders evened their record at (1-1) with a 41-28 victory over the Bankshots. Rich Olsen led all scorers with 21 points and Wonder teammate John Franicevich added 14 more to pace the victory for the Wonders. Tom McHenry led the Bankshots as he dropped in 16 points.

Migration Of Fowl Is Slow

Unseasonably mild weather has continued to delay the migration of waterfowl to wintering areas, the Department of Fish and Game noted this week as duck populations in the state climbed slightly past the 3.9 million mark.

Although the 3,941,725 ducks tallied in the aerial survey Nov. 3 was nearly double the number two weeks earlier, the DFG said, the state's duck population was down 9 per cent from that for last year at this time.

The latest biweekly survey also tallied 249,070 geese, down 47 per cent from the number for the corresponding date last year.

Frank Kozlik, DFG waterfowl coordinator, said the behind schedule waterfowl migration pattern is particularly evident in the snow goose and cackling goose pgpulations.

The largest number of ducks — 1,165,475 — was found on Gray Lodge Wildlife Area near Gridley, Butte County. Other locations of large concentrations were the Butte Sink, 500,450; Tule Lake and Lower Klamath national wildlife refuges, 531,900; the Grasslands of the San Joaquin Valley, 518,375, and the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta, 377,970.

Five Big Victories in Coast Flag Football

The Wild Turkeys, Badd, Azz, Daly City Flyers, Sun Valley Dairy and Shoe Fair Rogues all picked up impressive victories to highlight the fifth and sixth week of action in Pacifica Adult Flag Football League.

Bill Dabney passed two scoring bombs to Bill Weller and ran for another, as the Wild Turkeys picked up victory number two as they edged past the Red Devils 13-6. Steve Price paced the Red Devils with a touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Sun Valley Dairy relied on the passing arm of John Solomon as he threw a touchdown pass to Rich Statfull as Sun Valley Dairy leaked past Lord Byron's 6-0.

The Daly City Flyers led the whole game as Art Herrera caught two touch down passes and Manuel Hermosilla scored one touchdown repectively as the Daly City Flyers edged past the Shoe Fair Rogues 18-12.

John Gomes' touchdown pass to Jim Graham provided the only bright spot in the Shoe Fair offense.

Badd Azz scored the first two times they touched the ball and jumped to a 12-0 lead. The Sierra Lumber club came back, first on a pass from Rick Descheler to Jerry Santime, then on a six-yard run by Dennis Alexander.

The game remained tied until, with three plays left in the game, Badd Azz quarterback threw a 40-yard bomb to Butch Woodman and the game ended with the Badd Azz picking up victory number one 18-12.

Jeff Hughes, Bryan Muniz and Dave Massoni scored a touchdown each, as the Badd Azz picked up victory number two by downing the Wild Turkeys 19-13. Bill Dabney led the Wild Turkey's in the tough loss with two touchdowns.

John Castolonus, Dave Gomes, Al Kitz, Ron Belltramo scored a touchdown apiece, as the Shoe Fair Rogues walloped Lord Byrons 34-18. Joe Shannon, Dal Monii, and Tom Ludsotti paced Lord Byron's with a touchdown each.

Dan Racanelli and Rich Stratful caught touchdown passes from John Solomon. Stratful's came with two plays left in the game, but it was not enough, as the Daly City Flyers behind the pass-catching of Mike Furtch and the running of Randy Baumgartner ripped Sun Valley Dairy 13-12 in overtime.

The victory moved the Daly City Flyers into the driver's seat for up-coming League Playoffs.

What to Do About Kids' Violence Is Subject of Panel

The F.D. Roosevelt P.T.A. is sponsoring a panel-moderator meeting to conquer the growing problem of aggression and physical abuse perpetrated by older children on younger children during after school hours.

A community effort to establish safe and supervised play areas for children is the goal of the meeting. How to stop the violence, what to do if it happens, rights as a parent defending a child, and how the police will handle calls, are among the kinds of questions to be asked.

City agencies from both Daly City and Pacifica will attend. The panel will consist of representatives from the police department, city council, recreation department, and Improvement Association. The public is invited to attend and submit written questions to these agencies.

The meeting will be held at F.D. Roosevelt School, 1200 Skyline Dr., Daly City in the multi-use room on Nov. 18 at 7:30.

ASSIGNED

Airman Robert M. Carpenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Carpenter of 1437 S. Mayfair, Daly City, has been assigned to Keesler AFB, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training. During the six weeks training at Lackland AFB, Tex., the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. The airman graduated from high school in 1976 in Daly City. His wife, Dana, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Rowell of 89 Shelborne Ave., Daly City.

IN WASHINGTON

Airman Roberto M. Arevalo, son of Mrs. Mirra Mejla of 6171 Mission St., Daly City, has been assigned to McChord AFB, Wash., for training and duty in the U.S. Air Force civil engineering structural and pavement field. The airman, who recently completed basic training at Lackland AFB, Tex., studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. Airman Arevalo attended Jefferson High School.

In Exercise

Navy Lt. Benjamin S. Antioquia, whose wife Guia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymundo Aquino of 282 Wyandotte Ave., Daly City, is participating in Exercise "Kangaroo II," the largest peacetime training operation ever held in Australia.

He is one of more than 32,000 sailors, Marines, soldiers and airmen from the U.S., Australia and New Zealand (ANZUS) taking part in the three-week exercise.

Participated

Navy Mess Management Specialist First Class Jose L. Abobo, son of Mr. Quinciano Abobo of 240 E. Market St., Daly City, participated in the Navy's 201st Birthday Celebration in San Francisco.

He is a crewmember aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Jouett, part of a special six-ship Navy task force that visited San Francisco from Oct. 8-13.

During a five-day stop over between at-sea training periods, more than 46,000 visitors toured the ships.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

With Thanksgiving just a week away, let's start thinking about what we will serve on that festive day. The basics come easy; turkey, dressing and cranberry sauce, along with these favorites, let's try something new and different, such as this cool and delicious molded salad.

PACIFIC LIME MOLD

1 cup boiling water
1 package lime gelatin
9 oz. can crushed pineapple, drained
1 cup Ricotta cheese
2 tablespoons horseradish
½ cup chopped nuts

Dissolve the gelatin in the one cup boiling water. Add the drained pineapple juice and chill until slightly thickened. Beat until very frothy. Fold in the drained pineapple, one cup Ricotta cheese, two tablespoons horseradish and half cup chopped nuts. Pour into slightly oiled mold, chill until set. Unmold on crisp lettuce greens. Serves 6.

SWEET POTATOES AND APRICOTS

3 pounds sweet potatoes
1 can halved apricots (can size 2-1/2)
Whole cloves
Butter

Cook the three pounds sweet potatoes until tender. Drain and cool. Peel and cut into thick slices.

Drain the juice from the large can of apricots and set aside.

In large buttered casserole, arrange the sliced sweet potatoes and apricot halves in alternate layers. Place a whole clove in the center of each apricot half on the top layer. Pour the apricot juice over all and dot with butter. Bake uncovered in 350-degree oven for 45 minutes. Serves 8.

Last, but not least, an attractive and delicious vegetable dish.

CALICO VEGETABLES

2 tablespoons margarine
½ cup celery, cut on the bias
1 3-oz. can drained mushrooms
2 tablespoons chopped pimento
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
1 package frozen peas and small onions, cooked and drained

Melt the two tablespoons margarine in sauce pan. Add the half cup celery, three ounces mushrooms, two tablespoons chopped pimento and half teaspoon salt. Cook 5 to 7 minutes; celery should be crisp, and then add the cooked and drained peas and onions. Pepper to taste. Serves 6.

Caremates Set Up Activities

A group of women whose men are in jail or prison now, or who have been jailed in the past, are planning social and recreational activities through Caremates, a women's club sponsored by the Service League of San Mateo County.

Meetings are held each Wednesday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at a Daly City location. Child care is provided for pre-school children. Refreshments and transportation also are provided.

There are no fees or expenses to members.

Reduced BART Fare On Thanksgiving

As a special holiday offering all one-way rides on BART Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 25, will be reduced to a single 30-cent fare, it was announced by general manager Frank C. Herringer.

The special Thanksgiving fare will mean everyone on this day will be able to take a ride from any BART station to any other point on the system for the single 30-cent fare.

Also, excursion rides around the system will cost no more than 30 cents. In order to take advantage of the excursion opportunity, riders must return to the station they entered without exiting anywhere else on the system.

Herringer said Thanksgiving has traditionally been a low patronage day and BART hopes the special 30-cent fare will be an attractive incentive for family as well as individual usage.

Man Injured in Fire

A South San Francisco man is listed in good condition after suffering burns of the face and hands when his car caught fire while he was driving along Linden Avenue about 7 a.m.

Jose Gurdillo, 56, of 905 Hillside Blvd., was treated by city paramedics and taken to nearby Kaiser Hospital for further treatment.

A paramedic spokesman said Gurdillo suffered first degree burns of the face and second degree burns of the hands.

Cause of the fire inside his car is being investigated by arson expert Gil Castro of the South San Francisco Fire Department.

False Alarm Sentence Set

An 18-year-old Colma youth recently was fined $60 and sentenced to 60 days of community work for turning in a false fire alarm.

Tommy Cala was found guilty of the charge by Judge pro tem Joseph Gruber in Northern San Mateo County District Court in South San Francisco after he listened to the case presented by Deputy Dist. Atty. Joseph DeScala Jr.

A police officer spotted Cala pulling a fire alarm box at the corner of Junipero Serra and School streets on Aug. 26 at about 1:48 a.m.

Cala was apprehended and charged with turning in a false fire alarm.

Referendum Mailer Attacked

Two San Bruno city councilmen have called on the city attorney to investigate alleged violations of the state elections code relating to a mailer distributed this week urging citizens to recognize that a referendum on The Place apartments is "unnecessary and unjustified."

Councilmen Gary Mondfrans and Richard Griffith are charging that the mailer, sent to some 9,000 homes in the city, does not state who authored and printed the material, and thus violates Section 12049 of the elections code.

The code states in part: "Every bill, placard, poster, pamphlet or other printed material having reference to an election or any candidate shall bear upon its face the name and address of the printer and publisher."

The mailer was sent to registered voters last week in an attempt to dissuade them from signing a referendum petition being circulated by a group of San Brunan opposed to the rezoning of a seven-acre parcel to allow for the expansion of The Place apartments.

The rezoning has been approved by a split vote of the council. Petition signers want the issue placed on the ballot and decided by the voters.

Mondfrans and Griffith voted against the rezoning.

The councilmen maintain that the mailer attempts to "defraud and deceive the public," leading readers to believe that it was prepared and distributed by the city.

City Manager Gerald Minford issued a statement Nov. 9 noting that the city had received inquiries from residents asking if the mailer was prepared by the city staff.

His statement read: "There have been a considerable number of calls received at City Hall in the mistaken belief that the mailer titled 'Be Sure Before You Sign' mailed to each resident in the community was distributed by the city.

"The City of San Bruno had nothing to do with the mailing. The mailing was sent out by Lincoln Properties Inc."

Asst. City Atty. Michael Galligan said he would not comment on the councilmen's allegations because he said he had not read the mailer or reviewed the cited section of the elections code.

He did say he would investigate the complaints.

Dave Heagerty of the Santa Clara public relations firm representing Lincoln Properties, said his client "seriously questions whether the mailing piece is a violation of any of our election codes since at this time no election has been set."

Heagerty issued a statement made by Denny McLarry, a partner in Lincoln Properties.

It read, "We regret any confusion caused by the mailer that was sent to citizens requesting that they uphold the vote of the City Council approving Lincoln Properties Co.'s plans for the fifth and final phase of The Place in San Bruno.

"The mailer merely pointed out sound reasons for supporting further development of 176 apartments at The Place and requested that citizens be sure of what they might be asked to sign."

McLarry's statement also noted that the mailer was prepared on behalf of a group supporting City Council approval of the rezoning. The group, according to McLarry's statement, is called "Citizens Against Needless Taxes," or CANT.

Heagerty named four San Brunans who belong to the group including Alfred Stockton, Charles Young, June Hons and Gerald Chandler.

Asked who had paid for the mailers, Heagerty said "no one yet," adding, "our company prepared the material and we have not sent a bill out yet."

Heagerty said a bill "probably" would be sent to the citizens group.

Both Mrs. Hons and Chandler are affiliated with the San Bruno Chamber of Commerce, Mrs. Hons is a past president and Chandler is the current executive director.

The chamber board of directors voted recently to support the The Place expansion, reasoning that the housing element of the city's general plan calls for more rental units.

Alfred Stockton, according to Heagerty, is a local businessman and property owner. He resides in San Mateo.

Mrs. Hons said Nov. 10 she "can't recall hearing" of a group called Citizens Against Needless Taxes," but she did acknowledge that a woman from Heagerty's office had called and asked her if the firm could use her name in support of the The Place expansion. She agreed.

When told that Heagerty said the citizens group "probably" would be billed for the cost of the mailers, Mrs. Hons replied, "That's very upsetting. No one ever told me anything about the mailer and I will not pay."

Chandler and Stockton were out of their offices Wednesday and unavailable for comment.

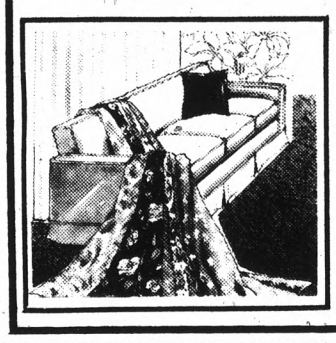

Young, who represents the San Bruno Carpenter's Union Local 848, confirmed that he is a member of CANT.

When told Heagerty's Company "probably" would bill the group for the cost of the mailers, he replied, "I doubt that, I don't think we'll be billed."

Rams Take Lead As Colts Upset

By JOHN MURPHY
Post Correspondent

There was six minutes remaining in Friday's football game between North Peninsula League prep football leaders Westmoor and Half Moon Bay. The host Rams were leading by the eventual final score of 29-6 and were huddling up on offense from their own 28 yard line.

Suddenly, and unexpectedly, pandamonium broke loose on the Westmoor sidelines. Players were slapping hands and congratulating one another, head coach Pete Matisi was grinning from ear to ear and one Westmoor player (Fred Collier) was jumping up and down and embracing cheerleaders in the spirit section.

The news had reached Daly City: Oceana had upset El Camino 17-14.

Up to that point El Camino had held the inside track to the NPL title and a berth in the Thanksgiving Day Peninsula Bowl game against the Mid-Peninsula League champion.

However, Westmoor's victory, coupled with El Camino's defeat, gave the Rams a one-game bulge with only Jefferson (2-4) remaining on the schedule. Only a Jefferson win next Friday combined with an El Camino victory over Half Moon Bay could prevent the Rams from representing the NPL on Turkey Day.

In any case, Friday's surprising developments have made Westmoor at least co-champions. Westmoor's last championship season was 1972 when they tied with HMB and then won a special playoff game to advance to the Central Coast Section playoffs in which the NPL no longer participates.

In other NPL contests Friday Serramonte routed Jefferson 35-0 and Terra Nova beat South San Francisco 29-0.

HMB-Westmoor

The Rams utilized what seemed to be every trick play imaginable in this game and almost every ploy worked, at least to some degree.

Included in their repertoire was a flanker pass by John Smith, a pass by fullback Mike McLennan in which quarterback Jack Dorn wound up on the receiving end, and a mind-boggling piece of razzle-dazzle known to Westmoor players as the "Matisi Special."

Just for the record, the Matisi Special consisted of a forward pass by Dorn to flanker Marcel Crossland, who pitched back across the line of scrimmage to Dorn, who then attempted a second forward pass.

Dorn had a superb game, hitting on 12 of 18 passes for 136 yards and three touchdowns. He also ran 10 times for 46 yards. Included in his trio of TD strikes was a 42-yard bomb to Crossland, a 23-yard aerial to Brian Michelson and an eight-yarder to Steve Chudzinski.

McLennan and Smith paced Westmoor's running game with 52 and 58 yards, respectively. Smith had an 18-yard TD run in the first period.

Westmoor outgained HMB 377 to 203. The Cougars' lone score came on 13-yard pass play from QB Grant Campbell to tight end Dave Bradley.

"It seemed like everything we tried today worked," said Matisi. "The passing, our running attack - everything looked good. This team has really come of age."

El Camino-Oceana

It seemed rather insignificant when Oceana placekicker Dave Hinds booted a 20-yard field goal late in the first period to make it El Camino 14, Oceana 3.

In fact, the importance of that kick seemed even more diminished when El Camino took the ensuing kickoff and drove 61 yards down to the Oceana one yard line.

However, an untimely illegal procedure penalty cost the Colts five yards, and they proceeded to miss a 23-yard field goal attempt.

Still, Oceana was moving sporadically against an aggressive Camino defensive unit, and it appeared that the Colts were in total command as the first half ended.

But it didn't take Oceana long to get its running game untracked in the third quarter. The Sharks took the second half kickoff and marched 62 yards in eight plays with Denis Murray tallying on a 23-yard draw play off left tackle.

El Camino proceeded to fumble away its next possession and the opportunistic Sharks took over on the Colt 36. This time it took Oceana nine plays to cover the distance with Randy Swayne scoring on a two-yard dive. Hinds' second PAT made it 17-14.

Following a change of possession Ocrleana put togther a 13-play drive which ate up much of the final period. The Sharks were finally halted when Murray was stopped inches short of another first down at the Colt 29.

Camino's last opportunity began at its own 13 yard line with 2:11 left. QB Al Kern hit receiver Jim Nishida three times for 40 yards and connected with Dan O'Regan for 13 as the Colts moved to the Oceana 19 with 0:39 remaining.

Kern then lofted a pass intended for Nishida in the end zone. However, Shark defensive back Jim McCrary played the pass perfectly and intercepted to end the threat.

El Camino led Oceana in total offense 244 to 177. Colt halfback Dennis Cowen continued a banner season with 107 yards and two TDs on 21 carries.

Swayne topped Oceana's ground-gainers with 21 carries for 92 yards. Much of his yardage was the result of second effort.

Terra Nova-SSF

Terra Nova unleashed an exciting new runner in junior transfer Mike Diaz, a late season addition from St. Ignatius.

Diaz rushed for 113 yards on 17 attempts and scored on runs of three, 17 and 16 yards. Backing Diaz was fullback Jeff Bartizal, who ran for 86 yards on 18 carries and one TD.

Terra Nova rolled up 239 yards on the ground compared to 94 for South San Francisco, and outgained the Warriors overall 288 to 108.

Serramonte-Jeff

Serramonte, which has played well (and might be in a tie for first place, today were it not for a disputed clipping call that nullified a touchdown in a 22-21 loss to Westmoor) couldn't score in the first quarter. After that — gangbusters.

The Regents opened up a 14-0 lead at the half on a 30-yard pass from Dan Lara to Kern Herbert and a three-yard run by Ron Gibson (set up by a pass interference call).

Two more Jefferson turnovers led to two more Gibson TD runs after the half, from two and four yards out. The Regents got their final tally when defender Carlos Duharte snatched the ball away from a Jeff runner at the Indian 45 and ran all the way to score.

Lara hit seven of 10 passes for 139 yards and Gibson carried four times for 74 yards for the Regents (now 3-3 in the NPL and 5-4 overall). Jack Sanders picked up 82 yards on 19 carries for Jeff (2-4, 2-6-1).

SLOW DOWN, JACK

Westmoor quarterback Jack Dorn (19) tries to elude Half Moon Bay defensive lineman Lane Lees Friday in a battle of NPL co-leaders. Dorn passed for three TDs, ran 10 times for 46 yards and even caught a pass in Westmoor's 29-6 win — which, coupled with Oceana's upset of El Camino, put the Rams alone in first place with one week to go.

CSM Triumphs

The game had gone very well for him, and only the memory of another game that hadn't could momentarily brush the grin from Dewey Bohling's face.

The College of San Mateo tailback totaled more than 200 yards in all-purpose rushing for the second straight week. The Bulldogs had downed visiting West Valley 24-16 Saturday to remain tied with San Jose City College for the Golden Gate Conference lead.

But for a moment Bohling thought back to that San Jose game earlier in the season . . . the one he hadn't felt like playing in after coming off an injury.

"You should never stop trying, and I did," he said. "That made me a quitter."

That's hard to believe, if you know anything about Dewey Bohling.

Like the time Bohling, when he was a senior at Hillsdale High, wanted very much to play even though he had a cracked arm — so he soaked his cast and had his sister help him cut it off. He told his coach he had his doctor's permission to play, then went out and scored 26 points.

What happened in between?

Last year he went off to the University of Nevada/Reno, but things didn't work out and before long he left. This year he came out for football at CSM, but discovered he was a second-string tailback for a team that used just one tailback, Bill Ring, plus a fullback for lead blocking. Bohling chafed.

"When I didn't play, it made practice hard," said Bohling. "When you're playing practice and everything else becomes much easier, because you feel like you're at least contributing something."

Night-and-Day Hearings Play Before SSF City Council

Public hearings for the South San Francisco Scavenger Co. and the Western TV Cable Co. before the City Council last week were as different as night and day.

While the scavengers and the city staff essentially agreed on a rate increase, the cable company and the city remain at odds after months of negotiations.

And while only one person spoke to complain of a personal problem with the scavenger company, seven residents questioned the cable company's service record and protested the proposed rate hike.

Western TV Cable Co., the city's cable operators for nine years, is asking for a rate increase of from $5.25 a month to $6.80 a month on Jan. 1, 1977, and to $7.25 a month on Jan. 1, 1978 for primary service.

Acting City Manager Frank Addeigo has recommended that the council approve a rate increase to $6.25 a month.

The company also is seeking an increase of from $1.25 a month for extra television or FM hookups to $1.70 a month on Jan. 1, 1977, and $1.80 a month on Jan. 1, 1976.

The city staff recommends a new rate of $1.59.

The company's chairman of the board, Edward Allen, said they are trying to reach a rate which is not too high but will yet allow fair compensation for the company.

"We think in terms of our ability to stay in business . . .," Allen said. "What we propose is not excessive because it's necessary to retain our purchasing power."

"We intend to be a profit-making company," Allen said. "That's why we went into business."

Allen said the company has experienced a severe drop in profits since it's last rate increases, phased in during 1972 and 1973.

"This will halt the drop in our profit level but it will not restore the level of profits we had before," Allen said.

He said that since the company was founded nine years ago, it has been unable to pay dividends to its stockholders. It's hoping to change that situation this year.

However, he said, it is the company's intent to improve cable service by expanding the number of stations from 12 to 16 or 17, completely revamping FM service, and installing two-way communication capabilities.

Addiego, however, argued that the company has been able to pay back most of the original loan that set up the company. If that has been possible, he said, the company must have been making money.

Allen said the company receives few service complaints and that, "We pride ourselves in our service."

However, one resident pointed out that South San Franciscans don't have any choice. Either they subscribe to Western Cable or they don't get a television picture.

Another resident, Marie Peterson, said she believes service has been very poor. She said she has called the cable company for service and the repairman has told her the problem is in her television set, not the cable system. The television repairman, she said, says the opposite.

"I don't think service has been all that good," Mrs. Peterson added.

Resident Larry Varro said the council should consider that the cable company is a monopoly and residents are a "captive audience."

Jay Jones protested that the increase requested by the company is a much greater percentage hike than the scavenger's request.

He said when the rates go up, so will his television antenna because he will cancel his subscription.

Allen said the company is not a monopoly because it competes with every other recreation in the city. He also said he makes no apology for the company's being in business to make a profit.

"It takes every dime we take in to operate," Allen said. With no increase, the company is expected to make a $50,000 profit next year. With the proposed rate hike, he estimated it will make a $150,000 profit.

The scavenger hearing went much smoother. The city and the company have essentially agreed on various rate increases.

The increase for a 30-gallon can would be from $2.70 a month to $3.25 on Jan. 1, 1977, and to $3.50 a month on Jan. 1, 1978.

Rates also will increase for commerical cans and debris boxes. Senior citizens will be eligible for a discount.

Other aspects of the agreement include mandatory curbside service and mandatory pick-up throughout the city. The city also will receive 1½ per cent of the company's gross revenues.

The council is expected to officially act on both rate increases on Nov. 17.

Quick Thinking Results in Award

Sgt. Aidar Ibrahim's act of heroism was "just one of those things."

The 21-year-old South San Franciscan has been awarded the highest peacetime honor possible for a member of the U.S. Air Force — the Airman's Medal.

His parents, Ali and Sara Ibrahim, are bursting with pride over the award their son has received.

"There's our hero," said Ali Ibrahim at their Westborough home.

Young Ibrahim's quick thinking and reflexes probably saved the lives of four airplane crewmen, and prevented the loss of a Saturn Airways Lockheed L-100 aircraft operated under contract to the Air Force, an Air Force spokesman said.

The incident occurred Oct. 29, 1975.

Stationed at Travis Air Force Base, west of Sacramento, Ibrahim was standing with a civilian near an aircraft runway when a near-disaster occurred.

Ibrahim recalled that a auxiliary generator — a jet aircraft power source — caught on fire as a connected airplane readied for take-off.

The South San Franciscan was credited by the Air Force with turning off the ignition, disconnecting the generator from the aircraft and towing it from the area.

"His expeditious actions prevented damage to the aircraft, eliminated the danger to the crew members and minimized damage to the power unit," the commendation stated.

It said Ibrahim demonstrated "exemplary courage and heroism".

He didn't learn until two months later that someone on his base was nominating him for the Airman's Medal. He learned he received the award six months later.

The medal and certificate were presented in a ceremony at Travis Air Force base on July 28.

Ibrahim was an airman first class when the incident occurred.

Air Force officials say it is among the highest of military decorations because it is awarded only to individuals who "have performed exceptional bravery far beyond their requirements of duty."

New DC Committee Discusses Transit

The first meeting of the newly formed Citizens Transportation Committee met in Daly City last week to discuss the routes of Northgate Transit Co. and the proposed routes of the San Mateo County Transit District.

Attending the meeting were 16 persons from the business community, six city staff members and Councilmen Al Teglia and Victor Kyriakis.

The three-hour meeting concerned itself with existing bus routes in the city and deficiencies of the existing system, Assistant City Manager Ray Letsinger said.

Another meeting is to be held on Nov. 20 at 9 a.m., in the new Civic Center Building across from City Hall (90th Street and Sullivan Avenues).

Committee members will go over existing routes and make proposed changes, Letsinger said.

15-year Sentence Given In Pacifica Stabbing Death

Kenneth J. Russell, convicted of manslaughter three weeks ago in the stabbing death of his friend, John Yazolino in Pacifica in January of 1975, today was sentenced to state prison by Superior Court Judge Gerald E. Ragan.

The maximum term for manslaughter is 15 years.

Although the term for voluntary manslaughter carries a maximum penalty of 15 years, a new law going into effect next July could reduce the term to a maximum of four years. Judge Ragan pointed out. With Russell already in custody for nearly two years, he conceivably could be released after serving little more than two years.

Russell, 23, had pleaded not guilty and not guilty by reason of insanity to a charge of murder in the slaying. He withdrew the insanity plea after the jury returned a verdict of voluntary manslaughter.

Russell's case drew intense public interest when it was revealed that his mother and her neighbor, County Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald, had tried without success to prevent Russell's release from a mental hospital just a few days before the killing.

A psychiatrist testified at the trial that it had been a mistake to release Russell from the hospital.

The doctor also stated that he believed Russell lacked the mental capacity to form the required legal intent for conviction of either first or second-degree murder.

Another psychiatrist testified at the trial that Russell had formed in his mind the conviction that Yazolino somehow was responsible for the accidental drowning of Russell's father in May of 1972.

Disadvantaged Workers Air Problems

Participants in a federally funded program designed to give job training to the disadvantaged mapped out several action plans to counter alleged insensitivity to their problems on the part of the county Board of Supervisors and the U.S. Department of Labor at a meeting this week.

About 40 persons, most of them in the Comprehensive Employment Training Act program that employs 400 persons countywide, attended a meeting of the North County Human Needs Council to discuss CETA problems.

The CETA workers charge that the Labor Department and the Board of Supervisors have been shuffling their grievances back and forth in order to avoid the issue.

Among many grievances, CETA workers charge that the program is poorly run, that employes are not given training which really will help them find permanent jobs and that some of these do not receive fringe benefits.

More than 100 CETA employes, in addition, will be terminated Nov. 26, allegedly for lack of funds. But the disgruntled CETA employes say there is enough money for the positions.

At the meeting, several committees were set up, one of which will study whether the money for the positions actually exists. A representative of Congressman Leo Ryan who attended the meeting, said Ryan also will pursue the CETA matter.

The employes also agreed to continue several procedures already in the works to get their grievances worked out — including a possible lawsuit against the Department of Labor and the Board of Supervisors.

The Human Needs Council unanimously voted to state that the Board of Supervisors should no longer be the program's prime sponsor and should be replaced by a commission which "is really concerned about the welfare of the people," according to Phil Rafalow of South San Francisco, a former GETA employe.

The council also voted unanimously that both the field representative for the Labor Department and William Haltigan, the department's regional administrator, should be fire. Both recommendations are of only an advisory nature.

In about two weeks, all the committees will meet together, after which another general meeting of the CETA employes will be called, Rafalow said.

County Urges Delay

A delay in the implementation of a new law which would require the housing of certain juvenile law offenders in facilities other than juvenile homes will be sought by the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors.

Supervisor John M. Ward brought the matter to the attention of the board Tuesday. He noted that Assembly Bill 3121 revises existing law to require that juvenile "status offenders" be detained only in shelter care facilities, crisis resolution homes or in a nonsecure facility.

The law further authorizes probation officers to operate and maintain detention facilities or to contract with private agencies for the placement of juveniles who are not considered escape risks and are not considered a danger to themselves or to the person or property of another.

The disturbing thing, Ward said, is that the legislation does not provide funding to carry out the program, although some $88,000 would be provided to San Mateo County to implement the program.

"I think we should publicize this so the public will know why we have budget problems," Ward stated.

He suggested that the county seek a delay in implementing the program in order to determine costs and include them in the budget for 1977-78.

In approving Ward's proposal, the board also decided it will seek the support of the County Supervisors Association of California in asking the state to delay implementation.

The association was active in opposing the bill before it was enacted earlier this year.

Couple in Colma Is Arrested

Some $7,000 worth of stolen property was recovered Tuesday night when undercover agents of the countywide Narcotics Task Force and Broadmoor police raided the home of a young Colma couple.

According to Sgt. Mike Dow, chief of the narcotics task force, stereo equipment, four color TVs, two fully loaded automatic pistols, two switch blade knives and 10 pounds of marijuana were found in the home Mr. and Mrs. Michael P. O'Neill at 388 Third Ave., Colma.

Dow reported that O'Neill, 20, is believed to have had about five burglars working for him, and the investigation began when San Carlos police picked up a burglary suspect a week ago.

The TV sets, Dow said, were taken in burglaries in San Mateo, Burlingame and the Redwood City-Atherton area.

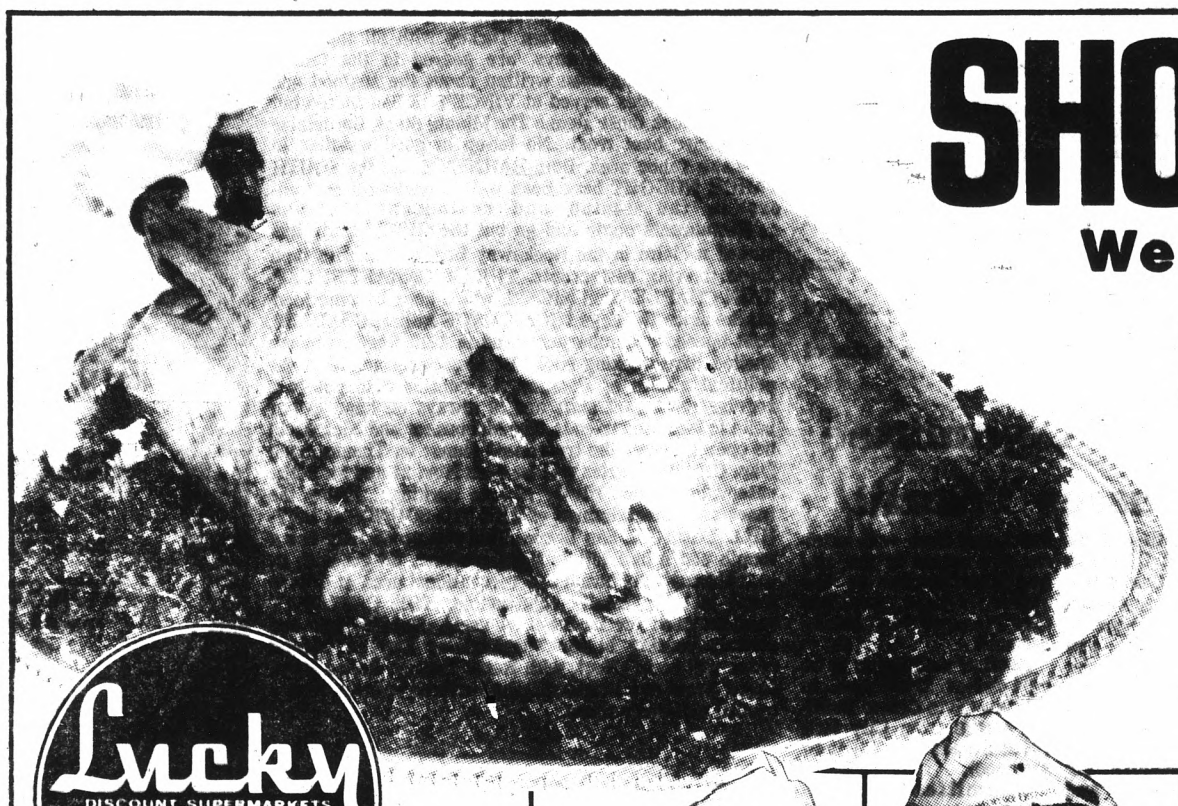

Their young daughter was turned over to her grandmother, Dow reported. The mother and father later obtained their release on $10,000 bail each, however, and are due to appear in Northern Municipal Court on Nov. 22.

Perils of Predicting Quakes Is Told

BY GEORGE GOLDING

The economic impact of predicting an earthquake might be as great a disaster as the quake itself, John Nocita of the Federal Preparedness Agency told the state Seismic Safety Commission Thursday in South San Francisco.

Nocita said a study conducted by Professor Eugene Haas of University of Colorado indicates that accurate prediction of earthquakes may lead to economic stagnation, unless some countermeasure is found.

In Boulder, Colo., Lyn Parsons, project director for the study conducted by Dr. Haas, said that that is not the thrust of the report.

Prepared for the National Science Foundation and due for public release in January, the report is now being reviewed by participating agencies, she said.

The purpose of these briefings, she said, is to prepare those agencies to cope with possible results related to a major quake.

One of these, she admitted, is that economic disaster might result from a quake prediction, unless it is prevented by combined action of government and private business.

A review of these findings with California agencies that have participated will be held in the Bay Area this coming week.

Nocita told the Seismic Safety Commission that accurate prediction of earthquakes could lead to mass evacuation of potentially stricken areas, increases in unemployment, falling off of construction and similar activity, and early removal of business firms which might have been considering a change in location.

Nocita said this raises a number of problems, such as who assumes responsibility for announcing potentially dangerous earthquakes, if accuracy in prediction is achieved.

He said insurance companies are intensely interested in this problem of liability, and suggested that "prediction of earthquakes takes them out of the category of 'acts of God'."

Nocita urged the Seismic Safety Commission to consider such possible effects, plus other problems that might be created by mass evacuation of people from a quake zone.

"If their homes are wiped out," he asked, "what do you do with them?"

Nocita admitted that the problems created by a major quake, such as the wiping out of Bank of America's financial headquarters in San Francisco, night be so large as to have an impact on the nation's economic health.

But, he warned, the problems created by accurate prediction of earthquakes might be as great.

Nocita suggested that the state commission could identify these problems and then work with his federal office to achieve solutions.

Already, he said, there is a plan for the Federal Reserve Board to step in and back up the financial losses that might be incurred by the leveling of a bank in a major quake.

The long-range effects of such a quake need to be studied, he said.

"This problem has not been addressed, and prediction only makes it worse."

Nocita said it is possible that scientists will find it possible to accurately predict quakes "within five to 10 years."

Commissioner Louise Giersch suggested that insurance companies not be allowed to meet the problem of possible liability for predicted quakes by simply writing an exclusion clause.

"Our purpose here is to protect people," she said.

Papan Starts Tour

Assemblyman Louis J. Papan (D-Daly City) has joined nine other state legislators on a two-week "cultural tour" of Israel. It started Monday.

The trip will be paid for by a Berkeley museum and will not be at taxpayers expense, Papan emphasized today.

Papan said he was making the trip because "I have a constituency that has an extensive interest in Israel."

The trip is designed to strengthen ties between Israel and the United States. It is not the first such trip undertaken by state legislators, Papan added.

"Last year, another group of legislators made a similar tour of that country," the assemblyman said.

Papan asked to go on the tour this year "because I feel Israel is without question one of the spots in the world that has much historic (and) religious importance."

Cost of the entire trip, estimated at $13,000, will be picked up by the Magnes Memorial Museum in Berkeley, museum director Seymour Fromer said Wednesday.

Incidental expenses and some meals will be paid for by the legislators, Fromer explained.

Papan said he is not taking his wife, Irene nor his three children on the tour.

Assemblyman John Knox, another of the lawmakers taking the trip, said the visit to Israel couldn't be compared to accepting a free golfing or hunting vacation from a large United States corporation."

He was obviously referring to President Ford's golf outings sponsored by an oil company executive.

2 Homes Hit by Robbers

Two unrelated armed robberies of Daly City residents inside their homes are being investigated by police today.

In the first incident, three men forced their way into the Crown Colony apartment of Raymond and Eddie Ponciano on Mandarin Drive shortly after noon Thursday.

The trio made the brothers lie on the floor while they began ransacking the apartment.

At one point, one of the robbers struck 22-year-old Raymond on the head with the butt of his revolver. The gun discharged, sending a bullet smashing through a coffee table and shattering a window, police said.

Instead of fleeing the apartment immediately the men continued their search, finally leaving after taking some $40 in cash, items of clothing and the brothers' car.

The car later was recovered in San Francisco.

At about 3:40 p.m., Ruth D. Chandler, district manager for a North County newspaper, was counting delivery collections inside her Rockford Avenue home when a man armed with a revolver pushed open the front door and ordered the woman to hand over the cash.

The man, wearing sunglasses and covering his face with the hood of his windbreaker, got away after grabbing some $120 in cash, police said.

'Great American Smokeout' Information

Lights Out for Cigarettes

WHAT'S WRONG HERE?

For 49er rookie quarterback Scott Bull, healthy lungs are absolutely necessary for top performance. With cigarettes known to cause shortness of breath and heart problems, among other debilities, you won't find too many pro football players who want the best from their bodies lighting up during a game.

Led by avid smoker Sheriff John McDonald, the San Mateo County unit of the American Cancer Society is urging everyone who smokes to join the "Great American Smokeout" Nov. 18.

The goal of the society is to get the estimated 100,000 smokers in San Mateo County to take that one day off from smoking.

Already, according to Natalie Lanam of the society office in Foster City, thousands have signed pledges not to smoke Nov. 18.

The local pledge goal is 25,000.

McDonald, the society's Cancer Education Week chairman, has signed the pledge himself.

In urging that more take the pledge, he points out that the most persuasive requests for pledges will come from the smoker's own friends and family.

McDonald, moved by the occasion, points out that "in the year of the bicentennial, we want to point out that many Americans have another freedom — independence from cigarettes."

The main premise behind the single day break in the habit is to show smokers that control of the smoking habit comes a day at a time.

According to a recent Cancer Society survey, nine of 10 smokers would like to quit "but the thought of an endless future without cigarettes is overwhelming."

The pledge, Mrs. Lanam says, gives the smoker important psychological help.

"The Great American Smokeout Day" will see the launching of a number of stop-smoking programs in the county. There will be school programs, and business firms and service clubs will show films and schedule speakers on the subject.

Additionally, the society is planning a series of stop-smoking clinics throughout the county over the next few months. The clinics, according to Mrs. Lanam, already have shown strong success in helping those wishing to give up smoking.

Those interested in joining the smokeout, taking the pledge or joining a forthcoming stop-smoking clinic are asked to contact the society office at 1163 Chess Drive, Suite A, in Foster City.

Behind the California drive, part of a national campaign, Mrs. Lanam says, is the fact that cigarette smoking is causing the death or disability of more Californians than any other preventable health problem.

California is expected to report about 8,700 cases of lung cancer in 1976, and about 7,800 Californians are expected to die of lung cancer this year.

Nationally, 100,000 Americans have lung cancer, and the society statistics are that 93,000 will be stricken this year and 84,000 will die of lung cancer — about 230 a day.

☐ Send me my personal pledge card so I can be part of The Great American Smokeout.

☐ Send me a sheet of pledge cards so I can help others join The Great American Smokeout.

Fire Bell Wins Place of Honor

South San Francisco's historic fire bell will get a permanent place of honor in the lobby of City Hall on Nov. 21.

The 1896 bell — resurrected in a Washington's Birthday ceremony this year — will be the focus of attention at the 2 p.m. program.

A former city fire fighter, Al Bianchi, told the city's bicentennial committee about the bell earlier this year.

It has been stashed away in a corner of the Harbor Boulevard fire station collecting dust for nearly 40 years.

The committee has been anxious to give the bell, which has been polished and restored, a dignified and permanent resting place.

Al Martin, a member of the bicentennial committee, has completed a base on which the bell will be mounted.

Surrounding the base will be ceramic tiles in an historic theme created by South San Francisco elementary school art classes under the direction of Mary Meissner, a committee member and a teacher at Martin School.

Former volunteer fire fighters will be presented at the ceremony. There were more than 80 volunteers from 1896 to 1928.

Meter Maid Hit by Car

A Burlingame meter maid was struck by a car on California Drive a hundred feet north of Broadway, Burlingame, while in her three-wheel vehicle on Friday afternoon.

The maid was turning into a parking lot when the nearly-new tri-wheeler was struck, and she pitched out onto the pavement.

A witness said that the vehicle has no seat belt. The meter maid regained consciousness and was taken to Peninsula Hospital.

The tri-wheeler suffered a dent in the left rear fender. A small black bumper also was dented slightly.

Officer C.J. Leonelli said the hospital reported that Carol Marie Mattimoe, 29, of Burlingame suffered neck and hip injuries and was held for observation after treatment. She was taken to the hospital by Bay Area Ambulance.

Driver of the other vehicle was identified as Georgina Bremner Longnore, 71, of 2818 Easton Drive, Burlingame.

Transit Board Makes Choice Official Now

"Alternate B" became the center of attention for the San Mateo County Transit District Board of Directors Wednesday night, that panel voting 5-0 to support B as its basic preference in future regional mass transit development.

The board thus officially went on record for preservation of existing Greyhound bus and Southern Pacific railway commute routes, restructuring of local bus feeder routes to better accommodate through service and reviving the transit market through more attractive fares.

Two other overriding reasons also are that this alternative is the least costly of five considered and it conforms nicely with current SamTrans plans for strengthening bus and rail service over the next 10 to 15 years.

Director Mark E. Savage of Pacifica made the motion to approve, adding that it was to "protect" the 3.4 miles of SP right-of-way between Daly City and San Bruno and to provide some mechanism for future funding.

Director Janet Fogarty of Millbrae seconded. Director William H. Royer, a county supervisor, abstained from voting, saying he wanted to keep his Metropolitan Transit Commission vote clear and uncommitted should this alternate come to MTC as a firm proposal.

Director Paul Cowgill of San Bruno said he was concerned about the right-of-way protection "being an implication we are approving an extension of BART to the (San Francisco International) airport."

"I'm just worried about what the newspapers will do with this, saying that we're in favor of extending BART after all the political trouble we've had over this," Cowgill warned.

But Chairman Robert E. Norris of Redwood City said that he saw "no problem" and that the district shouldn't "give up that right of way prematurely."

A possible BART extension was part of Alternate C in the report from General Manager John T. Mauro.

The board's action is its official response to a current Peninsula Transit Alternatives study being done by several agencies.

The board also heard a report on a San Francisco Bay Area Transportation Terminal Authority study that would either enlarge or replace the present Transbay Terminal in San Francisco.

Director C. Robert Payne of Pescadero said he was "terribly concerned" about the projected number of people, up to 210,000 a day, to be hauled into downtown San Francisco by 1995, asking, 'How will you handle them?"

Study Project Manager Jim White replied that the actual employment center in the city is only 200 feet from the terminal and that the calculated future traffic would be the same as it was in 1947, the peak year of the old Key System service.

The board directed Mauro and staff to prepare a position report.

In other business, the board:

- Heard Ransome Davis of San Mateo, a Town Hall Association spokesman, complain about possible youth fares and suggest they be kept the same and that some senior citizen fares be raised to help the district get 40 per cent of its revenue from fares and keep taxes for subsidies down.
- Directed Mauro to look into a possible route alteration to serve some 69 East Palo Alto children attending St. Anthony's School in Palo Alto.
- Heard a complaint from George Popyack of the Servicar, Inc. drivers union about the poor mechanical condition of SamTrans buses, suggesting in reply that Servicar management would be the proper place for their grievances.
- Called for bids for its mobility impaired transit program for the handicapped and some elderly, deciding also to make some minor specifications changes.

Loan Arrangement Shocks City Council

SSF Rescinds Harbor District Pact

South San Francisco councilmen learned this week the financial aid they accepted from the county Harbor District last week was not an outright grant of $275,000 but rather a loan at 4 per cent interest.

As a result of the confusion, the council Wednesday night rescinded its approval of a joint powers agreement with the district and ordered the city staff to go back to the negotiating table.

The council was stunned by the mix-up since individual members had specifically asked last week if there were any strings attached to what they had understood to be a grant.

City Atty. John Noonan said he learned the day after the council approved the joint powers agreement, last Thursday, that his interpretation of the financial arrangement was wrong.

"The harbor district is not at fault at all," Noonan said, "if anybody is at fault, it's me."

South San Francisco has been negotiating with the San Mateo County Harbor District for months for some kind of financial aid for its $6.6 million Oyster Point Marina expansion.

Last week, Noonan presented the council with a resolution to accept $275,000 to build two launching ramps at the marina.

At the same time, the harbor district was meeting with South San Francisco Parks and Recreation Director Dick Milkovich and approved a resolution presented by its attorney, James Dennis.

The district's agreement was for a $275,000 loan. In return, the district would receive the fees from public use of the launch ramps, not to exceed 4½ per cent interest a year.

It was the largest financial assistance agreement the harbor district had entered into with any one city to date.

Councilman William Borba, said he was disturbed to learn in the press that the grant was not really a grant.

"To me, there's a hooker involved and I don't buy it," Borba said.

Councilman Terry Mirri said there were several meetings at which the harbor district's offer was discussed and an interest rate was never mentioned.

"I'm kind of distressed about this," Mirri said. The interest, he observed, apparently is an essential term of the contract.

"I don't know whose fault this was but the council was very cautious . . .," he said. "It now seems to be a simple loan."

Milkovich said that the launch ramp fees amount to about $1,800 a year. At that rate, he said, it would take 300 years to pay off the loan.

He said there are other options for obtaining the launch ramp funds. The city, Milkovich said, could obtain an outright grant, but conditions of the grant would prohibit the city from charging for public use of the launch ramp. That, he said, would result in policing problems at the harbor as rows of boat trailers would be stacked up to use the free ramp.

The city also might be able to get a loan from the Department of Navigation and Ocean Development (DNOD) but the annual payback would amount to about $20,000 a year, he said.

"We took the lesser approach," Milkovich said.

Harbor district attorney Dennis has said that the district — which obtains its funds from a countywide tax — could not legally give a "gift of public funds" to another agency or a city council.

That's why, Noonan said, Dennis had insisted on a joint powers agreement with something for the harbor district to gain. However, Noonan and Milkovich indicated they thought that the harbor district's benefit was inclusion of the Oyster Point ramps in a countywide harbor plan.

Milkovich said that a $25,000 assist from the district for a feasibility study of the Oyster Point marina in 1973 was considered legal by Dennis because the district obtained information for its own use in the study.

However, Mirri said that the harbor district's offer actually means South San Francisco is borrowing its own money — the taxes paid by residents — back from the district.

He argued that the city shouldn't settle for Dennis's opinion.

"All of a sudden there seems to be no case for the city of South San Francisco," Mirri said.

Mirri questioned why the district cannot setup a minimal charge for South San Francisco, just to fulfill legal obligations. He noted the so-called $1-a-year contracts of some agencies.

The council voted 2-2, with Borba and Mirri voting yes, to cut off relations with the district entirely. However, the tie officially rejected the motion.

Three Arrested in Stabbing Case

Three teen-age boys have been arrested in connection with the stabbing Monday of a Daly City recreation leader at a city park.

Det. Les Bastedo announced the arrests Wednesday.

Bastedo said one of the youths, a 17-year-old, is from San Francisco's Mission District. The other two, both 16, are from Daly City. All were turned over to San Mateo County juvenile authorities at Hillcrest Detention Center.

The 17-year-old has been charged with assault with intent to commit murder. His two alleged companions in the incident have been charged with assault with deadly weapons, Bastedo said.

Police explained that the two 16-year-olds attacked William Zachary using belts with heavy buckles attached as weapons.

Monday afternoon, Zachary, 22, an employe of the city's Recreation Department for the past two years, was stabbed twice in the abdomen when he tried to break up a fight between two young girls.

Four or five male youths jumped him and began beating him up, Bastedo said.

One of the youths pulled out a knife and stabbed Zachary during the scuffle, police charge.

Seeks Facts on Airport

Sylvia Gregory of San Bruno appeared before the board Tuesday to complain that the court-ordered environmental impact statement (EIS) is "not near being completed" but that the airport is using federal funds for construction.

Two members of the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors will investigate a complaint that San Francisco International Airport is proceeding with construction of a new apron in violation of a federal court order.

She asserted that a restraining order restricting the use of funds until completion of the EIS is being violated.

"Time is of the essense," Mrs. Gregory stated in urging board action on the matter.

Board Chairman William H. Royer said, "We want all the facts" as he requested the board's airport subcommittee members, Supervisors John M. Ward and Edward M. Bacciocco Jr., to investigate the complaint.

Ward said there are some very complicated problems involving the airport, but that he and Bacciocco will develop strategy on how to approach the subject.

FOOD TIPS

Turkey Talk. . .

GENERAL TURKEY TIPS

BUY THE RIGHT SIZE TURKEY — When turkeys are under 12 pounds, allow ¾ to 1 pound per serving (ready - to - cook weight). When buying medium or heavy birds, 12 pounds and over, allow ½ to ¾ pound per serving.

THAW TURKEYS SLOWLY — Either (1) place bird, still in its original wrap, under running cold water. Allow 2 to 6 hours for thawing. Or (2) leave bird in its original wrap. Place on tray in refrigerator. Allow 1 to 3 days for thawing. Or (3) thaw at room temperature, leaving bird in a large paper bag which will provide some insulation. Allow 1 hour per pound for thawing.

TEST FOR DONENESS — Turkey is cooked when thickest part of drumstick feels very soft when pressed between protected fingers. The roast meat thermometer, if used, should register approximately 180° - 185° F.

CARE PROPERLY FOR COOKED TURKEY — Cool stuffing, meat, and any gravy promptly. Refrigerate, each wrapped separately and tightly, at 36° to 38° F. Use gravy and stuffing within 1 or 2 days, and then heat thoroughly before serving. Serve cooked turkey meat within 2 or 3 days after roasting. Cooked turkey, properly wrapped, may be stored in home freezer for later use. Never freeze an uncooked, stuffed turkey or a roasted, stuffed turkey!
